HAIL TO THE KINGS

Los Angeles Kings captain Dustin Brown hoists the Stanley Cup after the Kings beat the New Jersey Devils 6-1 in Game 6 of the Stanley Cup final Monday night in Los Angeles. It's the Kings' first Stanley Cup win in the franchise's 45-year existence. For the story, see page 43. MARK J. TERRILL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You're happy and they know it: Ad tech can monitor moods

Your face says it all.

Microsoft wants to patent a tool that analyzes facial expressions in photos and video conversations

Online advertising is about to get up close and personal.

Microsoft has filed patents for tracking systems that detect a user's emotions, including facial expressions captured in video conversations and Facebook status updates, in order to match online advertisements to moods.

Such technology would see weight-loss ads matched with unhappy people (who are more likely to want to change their lifestyle) and electronic ads with happy people (who are more likely to spend).

Degrees of emotion can vary — a user can be "very angry" or "slightly angry" — as well as the duration of the mood. Advertisers can target people "happy for one hour" or "happy for 24 hours."

The patent news comes on the heels of a policy paper released earlier this month by the Office of the Privacy Commissioner of Canada, which states that though an increasing number of Canadians are comfortable with similar tracking services, most "don't even know they are being tracked."

For companies like Microsoft, the super-specific advertising is one way to monetize its sites — an eternal challenge for most Internet companies.

Share me

Do you find this mood-tracking system creepy? Are you the only one? Share this article with a friend, family member — or that stranger sitting next to you — and see what they think.

But privacy advocates find the idea of the mood-tracking technology alarming.

"Definitely when you're talking about people's emotional states, you're getting closer to sensitive data that relates to their identity," said Tamir Israel, a staff lawyer at the Canadian Internet Policy & Public Interest Clinic.

Second Eaton Centre shooting victim dies

June 2 rampage.
22-year-old thought to be member of same gang as alleged shooter, died Monday

Nixon Nirmalendran, who was fighting for his life since the Eaton Centre shooting on June 2, died from his injuries Monday night.

Nirmalendran, 22, was gunned down along with Ahmed Hassan, 24, in the mall's food court. The attack left him in grave condition with bullet wounds to his neck and chest.

The alleged shooter, 23-year-old Christopher Husbands, is currently charged with one count of first-degree murder, for Hassan's death, and six counts of attempted murder.

A post-mortem examination is scheduled for Tuesday, police said. Charges against Husbands could be upgraded depending on the results.

The other victim of the shooting lingering in hospital, a 13-year-old boy who was shot in the head, was released Sunday.

day. His condition improved after what his family described last week as "complicated surgery."

"He's home with his family. That's excellent news," Toronto police Const. Tony Vella said Monday.

Police have revealed that Nirmalendran, Hassan and Husbands were believed to be all part of the same gang, later identified as the Sic Thugs which operated in and around Regent Park.

Nirmalendran, who went by the nickname "Nix," lived a troubled life for years and had a long rap sheet.

Nirmalendran was one credit short of his high school diploma and was about to reapply to Centennial College's Child and Youth Program, according to the lawyer who has represented him on various charges since 2007.

In the past five years, Nirmalendran was in and out of jail.

On Oct. 31, 2007, he took part in an attempted robbery in which an associate of his, Alwy Al-Nadhir, 18, was shot to death after police were called.

While serving time in the Don Jail, Nirmalendran was implicated in the death of another inmate on Jan. 2, 2010.

Nirmalendran was charged with second-degree murder along with several other inmates after Kevon Phillip, 24, was found in a prisoner's area with obvious signs of trauma.

Those murder charges against Nirmalendran were later withdrawn after his counsel argued there was no evidence he was directly involved in the attack.

He was not facing any outstanding charges.

'Devastated' dog owner charged with cruelty

Angele Lazurko once rescued a kitten from the side of the highway whose tiny ears were lost to frostbite. She named it Tilley.

Tucker, her chocolate lab mix, had once been an unwanted pet too. Lazurko, 20, who lives on a Sudbury-area hobby farm, loves all animals but Tucker was special, her family says. The one-year-old dog slept in her bedroom.

Now Lazurko and her companion, Matthieu Arbour, 21, are facing animal cruelty charges after Tucker died Sunday after it was left inside a sweltering car while the couple shopped at Vaughan Mills mall.

"She's very devastated by this whole thing," said her father, David Lazurko. "It's very difficult on her, especially losing her favourite pet."

Every summer, officials warn about the "preventable tragedy" of pets dying in hot cars. On Monday, a 70-year-old woman was charged after her chihuahua was rescued from inside an SUV parked at an Etobicoke mall.

But Lazurko's background makes her case all the more unusual. She is taking business classes at college with the dream of opening an animal-related company one day. She worked part-time at her local Pet Valu store. She raised funds for the SPCA. And she was in Toronto to attend Woofstock, the annual dog festival.

"She lost track of time," said David Lazurko. "She's not used to the big malls and that. Our malls are relatively small, compared to what you have down there."

She also underestimated the heat, he said.

His daughter was raised with all manner of animal companions but "she's just not used to travelling with them," her father said.

He said she has been fired from her pet store job over the incident on the weekend but "the worst thing for her is losing the dog."

Lazurko and Arbour will appear in a Newmarket court on July 10.

One industry won't challenge plastic bag ban

Ford says another will.
Mayor's been told a lawsuit is in the works

One of the two industry groups that had been thought most likely to file a lawsuit challenging Toronto's ban on plastic shopping bags says it will not do so.

"We're operating under the assumption that the city would not have passed the (motion) without ensuring that they had the legal authority to implement the ban. So under that assumption, we are not planning to challenge it," David Wilkes, senior vice-president of the Retail Council of Canada, said Monday.

Mayor Rob Ford said on his Sunday radio show that he has been told a lawsuit is in the works. The prime candidate is the Canadian Plastics Industry Association, but the organization has not yet made a decision, executive Marion Axsmith said Monday.

Ford blasted council again on Sunday for approving the ban without notice or consultation. While supporters of the ban said it was simply the right thing to do — and that Ford himself had forced the issue to the council floor — other cities that imposed bans did so after an extended public process.

Los Angeles approved a ban in May — eight years after the city created a task force to address the impact of plastic bags on waterways and four years after council set a formal goal of prohibiting them. The potential costs of a ban were studied, an environment committee considered it at length, the city developed a strategy to communicate with businesses, and dozens of residents and industry representatives got to plead their cases.

Across Canada

City council's snap decision to ban plastic bags had green-minded councillors from coast to coast wondering if they could do something similar. Here is a look at what other municipalities are saying about the ban:

- Mississauga. Um, no — that's about all Mayor Hazel McCallion had to say last week about whether Toronto's western neighbour would follow suit.
- Calgary. In Alberta, Alderman Gian-Carlo Carra told local media his city should "embrace the inevitability of the future and get rid of those things."

- Halifax. City Coun. Dawn Sloane also floated the idea for a Halifax plastic bag ban, although Mayor Peter Kelly was quick to shoot it down.
- Ottawa. Meanwhile in Ottawa, Mayor Jim Watson told reporters a bag tax — similar to the 5-cent fee Toronto had prior to the outright ban — would make more sense.

Toro Murata looks at a no fishing sign along the harbour front near the ferry docks in Toronto on Monday. Murata is a fisherman who is not happy with the new city bylaw prohibiting fishing from shore in the inner city area.

PAWEŁ DWULIT/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Anglers reeling over No Fishing signs posted along waterfront

Taro Murata was just six years old the first time he cast a line off the dock beside Toronto's ferry terminal.

As an inner-city teen, he would fish nearly every day after classes, catching pike and bass with his buddies.

"It kept me out of trouble," said the now 34-year-old, who turned his passion into a business offering guided fishing tours in and around the GTA.

For Murata, the city's recent decision to put up No Fishing signs along the inner harbour is particularly puzzling.

"It's crazy, I tell you. I don't get it," he said Monday, while winding line onto a reel.

The 20-odd signs, posted along nearly two kilometres of city-owned waterfront — from Sherbourne Street to the edge of Marilyn Bell Park — were put up on Friday by the city's parks, forestry and recreation department in accordance with a city bylaw stipulating that a sign should tell people where they can't fish.

James Dann, manager of Waterfront Parks, said about half a dozen complaints about public safety in recent years led to the new rule.

For instance, one elderly couple felt inconvenienced by someone casting a line while they were trying to walk past. In another, a rowboat got tangled up with a fishing line. No one has been hurt yet, said Dann.

Murata points out that people cycling or rollerblading along the waterfront can just as easily cause problems, and there's no ban on their pastimes.

"I've seen nothing but respect out here," he said, adding he and other anglers are well aware of who and what is around them when they cast.

Malvern school locked down after gas line rupture

About 150 homes near Finch Avenue East and Neilson Road were evacuated Monday after hydro crews working on Hupfield Trail accidentally ruptured a natural gas line.

Students at nearby Mary Shadd Public School were under a lockdown before being evacuated at 3:15 p.m. Police advised Malvern residents to keep their windows closed. It took fire crews about three hours to cap the leak, which started just after 2 p.m. No injuries were reported as a result of the leak. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Billboard opposed in booming neighbourhood

With development booming in Liberty Village, the Gardiner Expressway is losing its status as a good place for billboards.

That was the message successfully put forward by Coun. Mike Layton, who persuaded a council committee to oppose a new Gardiner billboard. The proposal was for a 20-metre high billboard with a static image changing every 10 seconds to be located on the north side of the expressway, about 100 metres east of Atlantic Avenue.

The planning and growth management committee voted to recommend refusing permission. City council will decide at its next meeting July 11-12.

Owners, get your hands off the tips: NDP

Try, try again. This is the NDP's second attempt to ban the practice of tip outs

It's time the Ontario government prohibited bar and restaurant owners from taking a portion of the tips left by customers for waiters, waitresses and bartenders, the New Democrats said Monday.

It's common practice for servers to share tips with kitchen staff, but many customers don't realize bar and restaurant owners may also take a cut of the gratuities, said NDP finance critic Michael Prue.

"We don't think that people who are giving tips know that the waiter or waitress who just provided great service has to give some of that away," Prue said in an interview.

Liquor servers in Ontario have a minimum wage of just $8.90 an hour, compared with $10.25 for most workers, and they depend on their tips to make up that difference, added Prue. Some restaurant owners take all of the tips meant for staff, he said. "It's illegal in places like New York state, and it should be illegal here too."

Accusations

"If you have a $100 meal and you don't leave a tip, the employee has to pay $5 for having served you."

NDP finance critic Michael Prue, on the practice of some restaurant owners who demand a percentage of the total bill from their wait staff

However, Labour Minister Linda Jeffrey said it's OK for management to take a share of tips as long as that practice is clear when the staff are hired. "We want employers to treat their employees fairly, and if they are not treated fairly, they should speak to the Ministry of Labour," Jeffrey told reporters.

Good wait staff and bartenders can always find work elsewhere if they don't want to share tips, added Jeffrey.

The Ontario Restaurant and Bar Association said it does not think the practice of management taking a portion of tips is widespread. "It's not all that common, so I'm not sure it's a pressing issue that needs legislation," said John Couse, president of the association.

Reform. No need for haste on condo act overhaul: Liberals

Legal reforms to help one million Ontario condominium dwellers are coming, but Premier Dalton McGuinty warns haste makes waste.

That's why the Liberals plan a methodical approach to fixing the archaic 1998 Condominium Act starting this summer, McGuinty said Monday.

"We have a fairly lengthy consultation process that we're going to undertake," said the premier, referring to a groundbreaking public engagement campaign inspired by academic Don Lenihan's new book, Rescuing Policy. Heeding Lenihan's collaborative "community" approach to public policy development, the government wants residents, developers and property managers to identify the issues and suggest solutions.

But NDP MPP Rosario Marchese, a crusader for condo residents and the architect of a private-member's bill on reforms being studied by a legislative committee, worried the Liberals are stalling. "We know what the problems are. I'm not quite sure why they're delaying." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Bill 33. Human Rights Code to include gender identity

Joanne Law has some heartfelt things to say about a bill that's expected to become law in Ontario this week and strengthen her human rights: "I love it. It's beautiful." "All of a sudden it's here, after fighting for 30 years," Law said.

Bill 33 adds gender identity and gender expression to the Human Rights Code, giving transgendered and transsexual people specific protection from discrimination. It is expected to become law this week.

Law, a trans rights educator and activist in Ottawa, said the bill is a legal foundation for the next steps towards equality and justice for transgendered and transsexual people.

For example, properly identifying the chosen gender status of trans people on drivers licenses and health cards would help in their involvement in the health care, education and incarceration systems, she said.

"We're becoming visible and our rights are being finally heard," she said.

Bill 33 has the support of all three major provincial parties. JESSICA SMITH/METRO IN OTTAWA

Ruth burned away her belly-fat and fits into her wedding dress again!

Ruth feels great! She actually got back into her wedding dress of 37 years ago, after taking Chili Burn!

Ruth's story

"After having 5 children, I had a hard time burning that extra fat. As the years progressed, I never viewed myself as being overweight, but I always struggled with fat on my stomach. At 55, I found myself constantly dressing to disguise my belly, staying away from tight clothes and the like.

People noticed my new figure

I read about Chili Burn in a magazine and thought I'd give it a try. I purchased the supplement at my local pharmacy and started taking it in July 2011. Now, 6 months later I have lost my belly fat and people really notice it. They all want to know my secret, so I recommend Chili Burn to family, friends, and acquaintances and really encourage them to try it out. This product will suit anyone who would like to burn fat with natural ingredients and be side effect free. I highly recommend it."

First anti-terror convict's appeal now underway

Supreme Court. Defence will argue life sentence too harsh for crime, offender

The life sentence imposed on the first man convicted under the country's anti-terror law is unprecedented and should be reduced, the Supreme Court of Canada was told Monday.

Momin Khawaja, a former Ottawa software developer, is serving life in prison with no parole eligibility for 10 years.

Khawaja was originally sentenced to 10 and a half years in prison after his conviction in 2008, but the Ontario Court of Appeal imposed the stiffer sentence when he appealed his case.

Khawaja's lawyer urged the Supreme Court to overturn that sentence and re-establish the original penalty.

Momin Khawaja. THE CANADIAN PRESS

"I am asking the court to say this unprecedented increase in sentence was wrong," lawyer Lawrence Greenspon argued Monday.

"A life sentence in this case is unfit for the offence and the offender."

Khawaja was convicted in 2008 of training at a remote camp in Pakistan, providing cash to a group of British extremists and offences related to building a remote-control detonator.

The prosecution failed to prove Khawaja knew the detonator was to be used to detonate a 600-kilogram fertilizer bomb in downtown London. But Greenspon said the appeal court held Khawaja responsible for that offence when it upped his sentence.

Khawaja's appeal is also focused on the legal definition of what constitutes "terrorist activity." His lawyer argues that the law is unconstitutional because it violates Khawaja's right to express political and religious views.

Greenspon said the motive clause in the law "will have a chilling effect" on free-speech rights. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Assault, abduction. Teen girls charged with human trafficking and pimping

JESSICA SMITH
Metro in Ottawa

Police have charged two 15-year-old girls with human trafficking for the forced prostitution of three other teen-aged girls, a case investigators believe is unprecedented.

The girls are also charged with sexual and physical assault, forcible confinement, uttering threats, and abduction. Officers are looking for a third suspect, a 17-year-old girl.

The three female victims are aged 13 to 17. They were lured by the accused girls via social media and other means, and were forcibly confined and threatened, said Ottawa police staff sergeant John McGetrick.

"They were taken to other places for the purposes of prostitution," he said.

The victims were separately forced into prostitution; one on May 19, the second on May 31, and the third on June 3, he said.

"In checking with the RCMP, who have a lot of expertise in human trafficking, they are not familiar with another case of this nature," said McGetrick. "It's shocking."

McGetrick would not say if the accused girls had ever been victims of trafficking or prostitution themselves.

If anyone has information about this crime or similar crimes they are asked to contact the Ottawa Police Service Sexual Assault/Child Abuse hotline at 613-236-1222, ext. 5944 or Crime Stoppers toll free at 1-800-222-8477.

Montreal protest

Group calls for review of police actions

Montreal police are being accused of political profiling — of searching and detaining people wearing the red square, the symbol of Quebec's protest movement.

A Quebec student group is calling for an independent inquiry into police actions over the Formula One Grand Prix weekend while also gathering details from recent weeks for a potential lawsuit.

The group, the more hardline CLASSE student association, is now gathering testimonies from people who say their civil rights were violated.

Police denied the accusation that they specifically targeted red-square wearers. They admitted to searching out people they deemed suspicious, and of using preventive arrests, but they said they were acting under constitutionally reasonable grounds, for legitimate security reasons.

The CLASSE group says it has received testimony from about 100 people who said they were victims of preventive detentions and political profiling. "What we've been seeing these last few weeks, and what we saw this weekend in particular, is really without precedent," CLASSE co-spokesman Gabriel Nadeau-Dubois said Monday.

Police said the biggest annual tourist event in Canada had been threatened.

Meanwhile, Quebec student activist Mathieu Girard was arrested while heading to his sister's funeral on Monday, an act his lawyer described as "completely inhumane." Girard could face criminal-mischief charges for acts committed during protests. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Afghanistan violence

Bomb kills pregnant woman

An ambulance struck a roadside bomb while rushing a pregnant woman and her family to a hospital in northern Afghanistan on Monday, killing the woman and four of her family members, the Interior Ministry said.

The incident makes a total of nine civilians killed in insurgent attacks or bombings in one day.

The dead included two women and two children, while another two people were wounded, the ministry said. The vehicle hit the explosive in Sar-e-Pul city, the capital of the northern province of the same name.

Earlier Monday, two women and two children were killed in the east when a mortar fired by insurgents hit their home in Ghazni province's Gilan district.

The militants appeared to be aiming for a building nearby.

As many as 100 people are feared dead in an earthquake and landslide that buried more than 20 houses in northern Afghanistan on Monday.

Rescuers have so far pulled two women's bodies from the rubble of the landslide in Baghlan province, said provincial Gov. Abdul Majid.

The UN confirmed one other death and said houses were destroyed across five districts.

An earthquake measuring magnitude 5.4 struck the Hindu Kush region Monday morning, followed by a 5.7 quake, the U.S. Geological Survey said. Both were felt as far away as the Afghan capital, Kabul, where buildings shook.

Afghanistan. Coalition airstrikes on civilian homes to be curtailed

The U.S.-led military coalition in Afghanistan is limiting airstrikes against civilian homes to self-defence for troops.

This follows a strike last week that killed women and children alongside insurgents, a spokesman for the alliance said Monday.

Such airstrikes are now being designated a weapon of last resort to rescue soldiers — this will cut back their use.

Though airstrikes on homes are a small part of the international operations in Afghanistan, they have brewed resentment among Afghans, even when there are no casualties, because of the sense that homes and privacy have been violated.

Civilian deaths from such operations have threatened to derail the Afghan-U.S. alliance.

A pact signed by the Afghan government and the U.S. military in April, putting Afghans in charge of joint raids in villages, was supposed to ease these tensions.

Of the 3,000 NATO airstrikes in the past six months, only 10 of them were against civilian homes. Of those 10, seven resulted in civilian casualties. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

British PM leaves daughter, 8, in pub

Family outing. Child was separated from parents for 15 minutes — until relieved Cameron rushed back to collect her

It's every parent's nightmare — get home, and realize a child is missing.

British Prime Minister David Cameron's office confirmed Monday that he accidentally left his eight-year-old daughter Nancy in a country pub after a family Sunday lunch.

Officials said the incident happened "a couple of months ago," as the family was leaving the pub near Chequers, a country house prime ministers use while in office, west of London.

Nancy had gone to the bathroom while Cameron and the rest of the family piled into two cars to drive back to the house.

Cameron was travelling in one car with his bodyguards and assumed that Nancy was in the other car with his wife Samantha and two other children.

Samantha assumed Nancy was with her father, and they only realized she was missing when they got home.

In a statement, Cameron's Downing Street office said "the prime minister and Samantha were distraught when they realized Nancy wasn't with them. Thankfully when they phoned the pub she was there safe and well."

Nancy was separated from her parents for around 15 minutes until Cameron arrived to collect her from the Plough in the village of Cadsden, officials said.

Sunday pub lunches have long been traditional in Britain, with fare often including roast beef, potatoes, and salad along with red wine, beer or ale.

Partisan era. Reagan, dad, wouldn't have fared well in today's GOP: Jeb Bush Respected Republican Jeb Bush suggested Monday that neither adored conservative icon Ronald Reagan nor his own father, George H.W. Bush, would have enjoyed much success in today's ultra-conservative, intensely partisan Republican party.

"They got a lot of things done with bipartisan support, but right now it's just difficult to imagine," Bush, brother of the 43rd U.S. president and son of the 41st, said in a roundtable discussion with reporters and editors held by Bloomberg View in Manhattan.

"Ronald Reagan would have, based on his record of finding accommodation, finding some degree of common ground, as would my dad — they would have a hard time if you define the Republican party — and I don't — as having an orthodoxy that doesn't allow for disagreement, doesn't allow for finding some common ground."

U.S. warns of potential 'massacre' in Syria

Civilians trapped.
Residents of rebel-held areas face peril as government forces try to take back positions

The United States accused the Syrian government of using "new horrific tactics" Monday, as UN observers reported Syrian helicopters were firing on rebellious areas and concerns mounted that civilians were trapped in besieged cities.

Violence in Syria has spiked in recent weeks, as both sides ignore an internationally brokered ceasefire that was supposed to go into effect April 12 but never took hold.

State Department spokeswoman Victoria Nuland expressed concern about reports the regime "may be organizing another massacre" in Latakia province, where UN monitors have been impeded.

Speaking to reporters in Washington, Nuland said Syrian forces should remember Bosnia in the 1990s, and how the international community can find out who is responsible for abuses.

"People will be held accountable," Nuland warned.

Activists reported more than 50 people killed across Syria on Monday, with violence in Homs, Idlib and Latakia provinces. According to activists' accounts, Syrian troops with helicopter gunships attacked Rastan, a rebel-held town in Homs province. Rastan has resisted repeated government offensives for months.

The death toll and the online videos were impossible to independently verify.

According to videos posted online, fireballs of orange flame and black rubble exploded in the air as waves of shells pounded residential buildings in Homs on Monday. The sounds of shells whooshed through the sky and there was occasional sporadic machine-gun fire.

"What we are seeing right now are fierce clashes as the Syrian army tries to take back positions held by the rebels," said Rami Abdul-Rahman of the Britain-based activist group Syrian Observatory for Human Rights, which uses a network of sources on the ground.

"There are many deaths in the rebel ranks," he said.

International envoy Kofi Annan said Monday he was "gravely concerned" about the escalation of fighting in Syria, citing the shelling of opposition areas in central Homs province

This citizen journalism image released by Sham News Network purports to show anti-Syrian regime mourners raising their hands on Saturday as they carry the coffins of citizens killed by government troops in Daraa, Syria. According to the Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights, many died in heavy pre-dawn shelling on the city, where the uprising began in March 2011. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"take all steps to ensure that civilians are not harmed," said his spokesman, Ahmad Fawzi, in a statement.

"We are calling this out now in the hope that we can stop what could be a potential massacre," Nuland said.

Nuland declined to say if Washington or anyone else in the international community might take proactive measures.

Syrian activists say 13,000 people have been killed since the uprising began in March 2011. The situation has grown increasingly chaotic in recent months, and it is difficult to assign blame for much of the bloodshed. The government restricts journalists from moving freely, making it nearly impossible to independently verify accounts from either side.

Students survive 9-day ordeal in NZ wilderness

Live to tell. Young American couple lived on trail mix after a snowstorm blocked their way back to civilization

Two U.S. students trapped in the New Zealand wilderness by a snowstorm trekked back out to safety after surviving their nine-day ordeal by rationing their meagre supplies of trail mix and warming themselves in hot springs.

Alec Brown and Erica Klintworth, both 21, returned to the city of Christchurch on Monday after meeting up with members of a search team — famished but otherwise in good shape, police said.

The two students, on a foreign study program in New Zealand with University of Wisconsin Stevens Point, had planned to hike and camp for a few days at some hot springs on the country's South Island. But heavy rains and a snowstorm during the Southern Hemisphere winter prevented the couple from being able to cross a river and return.

"Unfortunately it rained and rained, day after day, and snowed," Alec Brown wrote in an email to The Associated Press Monday.

He said the nights were tough to take because the rain and sleet pounded down on the tarpaulin covering their sleeping hammock and the river roared — reminding them all the time of their predicament.

When they realized they were going to be stuck they started rationing: "a biscuit and jelly one day," Brown wrote "and even less another."

It wasn't until Sunday, Brown said, that the river finally seemed safe enough to cross again. He and Klintworth

It's only a few days

The couple's ordeal began June 1 when friend Katie Jenkins, another UW student, dropped them off at a national park on the South Island's West Coast so they could hike and camp for a few days.

- "They were just going to the hot springs, to chill out and study for finals," Jenkins said.
- She continued with her own travels and didn't realize the couple were missing until eight days had passed, which is when she raised the alarm.

prepared for their hike out by cooking up a "good meal" of rice, marshmallows, peanut butter and chocolate, he said.

Sectarian tensions rise in Myanmar

Clashes. President blames violence on grievances, vengeance of ethnic groups

With residents cowering indoors, security forces patrolling a tense town in western Myanmar collected bodies Monday from homes burned to ashes in some of the country's deadliest sectarian bloodshed in years.

The conflict along ethnic and religious lines has left at least seven people dead and hundreds of homes torched since Friday and poses one of the biggest tests yet for Myanmar's new government as it tries to reform the nation after generations of military rule. The handling of the unrest will draw close scrutiny from Western powers, which have praised President Thein Sein's administration and rewarded it by easing years of harsh economic sanctions.

Thein Sein declared a state of emergency in the region late Sunday and pleaded for an end to the "endless anarchic vengeance," warning that if the situation spun out of control, it could jeopardize the democratic reforms he has begun.

The unrest — triggered by the rape and murder last month of a Buddhist girl, and the lynching of 10 Muslims in apparent retaliation — stems from long-standing tensions.

The region's Rohingya Muslims are seen by the government as illegal migrants from Bangladesh and are not officially recognized among Myanmar's ethnic minorities. Although some are recent settlers, many have lived in Myanmar for generations. The government position has rendered the Rohingyas effectively stateless, and rights groups say they have long suffered discrimination. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vatican

Health details of ex-bank chief published

The Vatican said Monday it "truly regrets" the publication of a letter from a psychotherapist detailing the mental health of the Vatican's recently ousted bank chief.

The letter, published Saturday, appeared aimed at further discrediting and humiliating the Vatican bank's ex-president, Ettore Gotti Tedeschi, once a top papal adviser. The board ousted Tedeschi, accusing him of failing to do his job, leaking documents and impeding the Vatican's efforts to be more financially transparent.

New Jersey

Yacht explodes near vacation spot

A motor yacht with people aboard exploded on Monday near a popular summer vacation spot and quickly sank, but no injuries were immediately confirmed, the U.S. Coast Guard said.

Twenty-one people were aboard the yacht, the Blind Date, when the blast occurred Monday afternoon about 17 nautical miles due east of Sandy Hook, in central New Jersey, authorities said. Everyone aboard apparently made it on to life rafts, according to a Coast Guard spokesman, who said there were unconfirmed media reports of at least seven injuries. The cause of the blast was unknown.

Ex-football coach a serial predator, court hears

Jerry Sandusky. Trial of former Penn State assistant coach, who's charged with abusing 10 boys, begins

The prosecutor called Jerry Sandusky a serial predator in opening statements Monday, while a defence lawyer said the young men accusing the former Penn State assistant football coach of sexual abuse had a financial interest in the outcome.

Senior Deputy Attorney General Joseph McGettigan III opened Sandusky's highly anticipated trial Monday by telling jurors that the 68-year-old retired coach was a pedophile who took advantage of fatherless children or those with unstable home lives and sexually abused them for years.

McGettigan said he would prove that the abuse included oral and anal sex involving boys Sandusky met through a

Dark day for college ball

Sandusky's lawyer, Joe Amendola, said the young men who would take the stand are accusers, not victims. He said jurors may find it odd that Sandusky showered with children, but that it was innocuous, and part of Sandusky's upbringing.

Dongguk University

Lawsuit against Yale thrown out

A U.S. judge has dismissed a lawsuit against Yale University by a South Korean university that claimed it lost tens of millions of dollars after Yale damaged its reputation.

Dongguk University claimed in the 2008 lawsuit that Yale wrongly confirmed that an art history professor Dongguk hired earned a doctorate at the school.

Court papers say Shin Jeong-ah later had a scandalous affair with an aide to South Korea's president at the time.

Dongguk sued Yale for more than $50 million, saying it lost that amount in government grants, alumni donations and the costs of building a law school the government later refused to approve.

The judge dismissed allegations of defamation and negligence, saying there was a lack of evidence of malice.

Drummer Chad Smith booed

The drummer for the Red Hot Chili Peppers was booed at an Ohio show, highlighting the deep football rivalry between Ohio State University and the University of Michigan.

Drummer Chad Smith was booed by a large crowd at Ohio State University last week after he began to sing a few lyrics to Michigan's fight song.

Smith walked around the stage after the band's encore performance last Monday and threw his drumsticks into the crowd.

Then he grabbed the microphone and began to sing the lyrics to "The Victors."

The Columbus crowd immediately began to boo him as he dropped the microphone and walked away.

Smith didn't attend Michigan but grew up in the Detroit area.

Greek extremist suing politicians he attacked on TV Avoided arrest.

Golden Dawn party spokesperson claims he was hit first

The Greek extreme-right party spokesman who caused an uproar last week by slapping one female politician on live TV and throwing a glass of water on another has sued the two women as well as the television channel that hosted the news show.

The move Monday by Ilias Kasidiaris, the 31-year-old spokesman for the extremist Golden Dawn party, is the latest twist in a bizarre political saga. Kasidiaris himself avoided an arrest warrant for the confrontation last Thursday, resurfacing late Sunday after the warrant had expired.

Kasidiaris appeared at an Athens court Monday, flanked by other party members, to submit lawsuits against Communist Party candidate Liana Kanelli and Syriza party member Rena Dourou on charges of alleged unprovoked insults and against Antenna television for alleged illegal detention.

Authorities had issued an arrest warrant for Kasidiaris after he threw water over Dourou and then slapped Kanelli hard three times across the face during a heated discussion on a morning political show Thursday. A video of that show has been widely seen on the Internet.

Under Greek law, an arrest warrant for a misdemeanour must be carried out by midnight the day after the act has occurred, in which case a trial is immediate. If the suspect is not apprehended within that time frame, the case turns into a judicial procedure in which a trial date is set, often for several months or even years later. Kasidiaris laid low immediately after the incident, but resurfaced Sunday evening at the opening of a Golden Dawn office in an outlying part of Athens.

Kasidiaris argues that he was provoked by insults during the television show and that the 58-year-old Kanelli hit him first with a newspaper.

Real estate crash in Toronto, Vancouver unlikely: TD Bank

Housing market.

Condos at greatest risk in both cities, but there may be enough demand to absorb the supply, report finds

Vancouver and Toronto home prices will probably experience a relatively mild downturn — of about 15 per cent — in two to three years, but not the dramatic drop that hit the United States a few years ago, according to a report by the Toronto-Dominion banking group.

TD said Monday the 15 per cent decline in Canada's two most expensive cities is likely in a few years but it will be gradual, rather than the sudden drop of 30 per cent seen in the U.S. real estate market after it peaked in late 2007.

Dow Jones: 12,411.23 (-142.97)

The bank's analysis is consistent with other warnings that Vancouver and Toronto real estate is generally overpriced, but supported by low interest rates and a stable economy.

That's not likely to change this year unless there's a major economic shock from outside the country, the TD report said.

In the meantime, TD says Vancouver's real estate market is stabilizing after soaring last year and Toronto prices appear poised for a robust increase.

"Some observers might point to the recent data in Vancouver as evidence that housing activity is going through a long-awaited correction. But the jury remains out. As we've pointed out, despite the recent pull-back in sales, the market remains in balanced territory and underlying prices are continuing to expand," wrote TD economists Derek Burleton and Leslie Preston.

"In our view, Vancouver's market is likely to show increased stability over the remainder of this year. Meanwhile, there appears to be little stopping Toronto's market from recording robust gains and continuing to play catch-up with its West Coast counterpart."

THERE'S NO DEFENCE FOR DIGITAL SNOOPING

SHE SAYS...
Jessica Napier
metronews.ca/shesays

I hate to admit it, but sometimes I can't resist the urge to take a nosy peek through the contents of my boyfriend's cellphone.

I've never felt suspicious of him, maybe just a bit curious as to what I might find. Fortunately, I've never discovered any incriminating materials or made any startling revelations about our relationship. All I ever find is a series of missed calls from his mother and an embarrassingly low Angry Birds score.

I spy with my little eye

"While feeling the desire to pry into password-protected belongings isn't intrinsically wrong, acting upon it certainly is."

Even though my occasional smartphone spying is relatively harmless, I always feel foolish and irritated with myself afterwards for acting like a jealous teen. Being in a grown-up relationship requires a certain level of trust. So while feeling the desire to pry into password-protected belongings isn't intrinsically wrong, acting upon it certainly is.

For some people, a logged-in Facebook account or an unlocked iPhone is just too tempting. If you do give in to the urge, it's always a disappointing experience. You'll never find a series of text messages to his or her friends about how amazing you are. Best-case scenario, you'll scroll through a series of boring work emails and perhaps a few photos of the two of you. At worst, you'll catch your partner in a hazardous web of secrecy and lies.

So why do we spy even though we know that no good can come from it? The desire to play detective can stem from many things: Suspicions of foul play, insecurity or jealousy. But whatever the reason, even if it is just innocent curiosity, there's no respectable excuse for violating your partner's privacy.

Not only is it morally questionable to breach someone's personal property, it can be an emotional minefield. Hacking into a Facebook account to find proof of infidelity might validate your jealousy, but it isn't going to make you feel any better. The catch-22, of course, is that you can't confront your adulterous other half without exposing your own immature, unethical behaviour.

Happy, healthy relationships are the result of hard work and open communication. If you're not satisfied with face-to-face dialogue and feel the need to go behind the other person's back, well, then something isn't right.

Ultimately, there is no excuse for betraying your partner's trust in the name of private investigation. So think before you act and be honest with yourself — you're not doing it to learn more about his or her taste in apps, you're hoping to find something incriminating.

And remember, if you go looking for something bad, you're probably going to find it.

Sherlock Holmes: Game of Shadows

Director. Guy Ritchie

Stars. Robert Downey Jr., Jude Law, Jared Harris

It was elementary that there'd be a sequel after the success of Robert Downey Jr.'s first muscular evocation of the Sleuth of Baker Street. But did it have to be this mechanical? Teamed again with Jude Law as his bromantic partner Dr. Watson, Downey gets off a few good lines and achieves some mild suspense. But his first screen pairing with Prof. Moriarty (Jared Harris), the classic Holmes nemesis, is drained of passion for much of the picture. Returning director Guy Ritchie favours endless versions of slo-mo previews of action sequences. Downey, Law and Ritchie need to do some detective work to find more compelling scripts, if this franchise has hope.

PETER HOWELL

In Darkness

Director. Agnieszka Holland

Stars. Robert Wiekiewicz, Benno Furmann

The shorthand description of In Darkness, a stirring work by Polish director Agnieszka Holland, is that it's a subterranean version of Schindler's List. This film and the Steven Spielberg Oscar winner both feature accidental heroes, people moved by circumstance to aid Hitler's prey. Schindler's counterpart is Leopold Socha (Robert Wiekiewicz). He makes In Darkness seem as much a description of his soul as it is of tunnel life beneath the streets of Nazi-occupied Lvov, Poland.

Adam Sandler and Andy Samberg star in That's My Boy, which opens Friday. HANDOUT

Funnyman Sandler ramps up the raunch

That's My Boy. Actor treads into R-rated comedy territory for the first time — with Andy Samberg in tow

NEO

Metro World News in Hollywood

Folks who aren't the biggest fans of Adam Sandler's brand of humour might find it hard to believe, but he's never starred in an R-rated comedy — until his latest, That's My Boy, that is. While his rare dramatic efforts generally get the restricted rating, Sandler has stuck firmly in PG-13 territory when it comes to his comedies. And it's paid off for him. In the past five years, only two films starring Sandler — the drama Funny People and last year's dismal Jack and Jill — have grossed less than $100 million at the U.S. box office, and worldwide his movies have pulled in $3.2 billion. So if playing to the middle school crowd had proved so lucrative for him, why risk ramping up the raunch now?

"I've done some stuff in the past few years where I've cursed a bit and it felt good," Sandler admits, though he says his decision to go with the R-rated That's My Boy was purely motivated by the story itself. "It was just a funny script. I liked the idea, and I liked the idea of hanging out with everybody."

But certainly for Sandler — who has proved a savvy producer and executive with Happy Madison Productions — that's not really it. After all, in the past few years R-rated comedies have become a viable proposition for studios once again, especially with the success of films like the Hangover and Bridesmaids. For a man that's made millions keeping it clean, such a sea change couldn't have gone unnoticed.

"It was fun to speak the way that I speak in my bathroom," Sandler says. "I grew up cursing a lot. It felt natural. My parents told me to stop. They weren't enjoying my albums, and they weren't enjoying a lot of the things I did with my life. And then, my father passed away and he's not here to yell at me anymore. I bullied my mother and said, 'Here comes some more dirtiness.'"

Still, as much fun as Sandler had, he insists he's still taking everything on a project-by-project basis — though that of course could change if That's My Boy performs well. "If a movie comes to me that is rated R and I like it and connect with it, I would do that," he says. "But it wasn't a choice. I don't know what I'm doing next. I never know what's coming next."

SNL memories

Sandler's words of advice

Co-starring with Andy Samberg — who recently announced his departure from Saturday Night Live — gave SNL alum Adam Sandler a chance to think about his own departure from the long-running comedy show 17 years ago. "You're scared when you go. SNL is a home," Sandler says. "There are 20 shows a year and you're definitely going to get on some of them and get to do your thing. When that goes away, there's no life jacket. You're just on your own and you've gotta figure it out."

Josh Henderson, left, stars as John Ross Ewing and Larry Hagman reprises his role as J.R. Ewing in TNT's Dallas.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, TNT

Guess who's back?

Television. Dallas is reborn on TNT with new characters, conflicts and villainy — and JR Ewing, too

"I hate to hit a man below the belt, but you know I will," says JR Ewing. "No hard feelings."

No hard feelings at all, JR. We're just feeling thrilled to have you back.

And as he resumes his special grade of sweet-crude villainy, TNT's resurrection of Dallas does the near-impossible. It reclaims the soapy and sinister charm that made this saga a hit for 14 seasons until relinquishing its hold on CBS' Friday lineup in 1991. And it ushers in a new generation of at-odds characters to supplement such timeless personalities as JR (Larry Hagman), his former wife Sue Ellen (Linda Gray) and his ever-upright brother Bobby (Patrick Duffy), while folding in contemporary plot lines, notably the push by Bobby's son Christopher to profit big from renewable energy — which, of course, is heresy to JR and his own son John Ross, whose veins flow with oil.

All this awaits viewers on the back-to-business Dallas (with a two-hour premiere Wednesday at 9 p.m. ET).

But wait! There's even more to look forward to: JR, undiminished by the passing years, is meaner and more diabolical than ever.

"In my wildest imagination," Bobby's wife Ann (played by Brenda Strong) wails at him, "I never dreamed you would stoop to this," to which JR advises, "Well, you're just gonna have to work on your imagination."

As the series begins, Bobby is preparing to sell Southfork to a conservancy that would guarantee the ranch's vast, pristine acreage can never be despoiled by oil rigs. Little does Bobby suspect that his nephew, John Ross, is already drilling Southfork land on the sly.

Across town, JR, who since we last saw him lost Ewing Oil and much of his fortune, resides in near-catatonic gloom at a retirement facility.

But never fear: News that Southfork is about to be sold jolts JR back to gleeful, vengeful life. His cold hawk eyes glisten. His tufted eyebrows rise like devil's horns. His wicked grin gleams.

"It feels like coming home," says Larry Hagman.

He's talking about the new Dallas and the opportunity to play JR again in the company of his Dallas pals. The only thing bothering the 80-year-old TV legend right now: the salsa before him needs a little kick. "You got any hotter stuff?" he asks the waiter.

Hagman, his Stetson parked on the table by his plate, has joined Linda Gray and Josh

Henderson, who plays their son, at a barbecue restaurant in midtown Manhattan to talk with a reporter about the show.

"It moves so quick," says Hagman with a chuckle, referring to the brisk pace and twisted narrative. "The old shows just drag along: long, long pauses; come in for a close-up where the actor's doing nothing. On this show, they don't waste any time!"

"The attention to detail, that's what impresses me," says Gray, still beautiful at 71. She speaks of a meeting early on with one of the producers, "and he said, 'What do you think Sue Ellen should wear?' Most executive producers don't ask that. They leave it to the wardrobe people."

"Ohhhh, my God!" gasps Hagman, who has just sampled the reved-up salsa. "I need an Arnold Palmer to put that fire out!"

Henderson is known for playing the bad-boy nephew of Nicolette Sheridan on Desperate Housewives and his starring role on the 2005-06 FX drama series Over There as a soldier wounded in the Iraq war.

Born in Dallas 30 years ago and raised in Tulsa, Okla., he was familiar with Dallas from his childhood.

"I don't really remember watching it, because I was so young, but I knew it was a big deal. My meemaw watched it every week, and my aunt, who had kids in sports playing on Friday nights, saved up money to buy a VCR, which cost $1,000 in those days, to record Dallas while they went to the kids' games."

"That's how important Dallas was to them."

Music. Aerosmith puts past troubles behind them as group embarks on summer tour and new album

Aerosmith has flown with turbulence for most of the group's 40-year career, but things in the band seem to be absolutely blissful as a summer tour begins.

"We've already gone through all our problems," Steven Tyler said in a recent interview, laughing with Joe Perry.

Aerosmith has had its share of feuds, most recently in 2009, when Perry lashed out at Tyler after the American Idol judge fell off a stage during the band's concert tour and injured himself, forcing the band off the road. Perry questioned Tyler's dedication to Aerosmith and even floated the idea of a new lead singer, but they publicly made up.

"Joe and I were fighting for a while, that's no secret," Tyler said. "But whatever demons or realities were going on in the band, it happens with bands that stay together for 40 years and have the success that we have."

Perry agreed. "It's only as good as those two hours on stage," the guitarist said. "The rest of it, I have no idea how it works. With Aerosmith, we put one foot in front of the other and hope for the best."

Aerosmith (which includes guitarist Brad Whitford, bassist Tom Hamilton and drummer Joey Kramer) starts the Global Warming tour with Cheap Trick on Saturday in Minneapolis. Later this summer is the release of the band's first studio album of all-new material since Just Push Play in 2001.

Music From Another Dimension marks the first time in a decade that Perry and Tyler wrote music together. Tyler says despite the time it took to get back to basics, once they did, it was like a "fine wine."

"It's the same bottle man. We just corked it. Everything that was cooking inside and fermenting to that just right year just happened to be now. It was the perfect time," Tyler said.

Perry said the album was 10 years in the making, with riffs he wrote back in 2002 and chord progressions from today. He feels they fit nicely in what he describes as "playing the old songs new and the new songs old" to keep the band lean and mean — part of Perry's commitment to keep Aerosmith from becoming a nostalgia act.

"There are bands that don't talk to each other for five years, and then get back together and go out and play their songs, and they turn into the best cover band of their own songs," he said.

"That's fine and well, but for us it will be always changing. We've been trying to write this record for 10 years, and we finally did."

THE WORD

Monica Weymouth
scene@metronews.ca

He was on home turf and brought his mom as a date, but even still, Russell Brand couldn't catch a break at the London premiere of Rock of Ages. While the comedian walked the red carpet for his new film, fans yelled that he looked like "Jesus" and a "homeless person."

Brand — like most people confined to skin-tight jeans and ornamental cowboy boots — didn't risk getting in a fight, instead taking it as a compliment.

"I'd like to play Jesus, and wasn't he homeless for a while too?" he answered, according to UK newspaper The Mirror.

He also admitted that his role as a rocker with a wild streak wasn't that much of a stretch.

"When I was lying on the toilet floor I thought, 'Hello, here we are again on my own,'" says Brand, who struggled publicly with drugs and alcohol before sobering up.

Lady Gaga reportedly suffered a concussion after a backup dancer accidentally whacked her in the head with a pole during a concert in Auckland, New Zealand, according to Us Weekly.

But while she was seen staggering backward after the blow, the singer continued, finishing her show.

"Gaga has a concussion but she is going to be OK," her makeup artist, Tara Savelo, posted to Twitter Monday. "Can't believe she finished the show."

Cannabis vs. cancer

Tommy Chong

Tommy Chong, one half of comedy duo Cheech & Chong and a longtime marijuana enthusiast, has revealed that he was diagnosed with prostate cancer — and he's using cannabis to treat the condition, according to CNN. Chong says he started seeing symptoms eight years ago "while incarcerated for selling drug paraphernalia," he says.

Chong is using hemp oil to fight his "slow state one" cancer, "so (legalizing marijuana) means a lot more to me than just being able to smoke a joint without being arrested," he says.

What a girl wants: The Blake Lively edition

Blake Lively, who is happily dating Green Lantern co-star Ryan Reynolds, looks for two things in a man: a sense of style and a passion for food. "It's definitely attractive when a man can dress well," Lively tells Marie Claire magazine. "What I love most is when someone, guy or girl, is effortless and has this old-timey sort of feel (that) you could take a snapshot of them and they could exist in any time period."

And as for the culinary side? "To be around me, you must love food or I'm the most obnoxious person you've ever met," she says.

"I'm in a big cooking phase. That's all I'll talk about."

Skin-care expert Michelle Moyer, founder of the Pulse Laser & Skin Care Center in New York, helps you identify your skin type, to help you have a sun-filled, but damage-free summer.

Define your type

- You never or rarely tan and always burn. Skin type 1
- You often tan and rarely burn. Skin type 2-3
- You always tan and very rarely burn. Skin type 4

TYPE 1: ala Lily Cole

Natural skin colour before sun exposure: extremely pale or ivory white. You have: blonde or red hair and light eyes. Reaction to sun exposure: you never tan. Sensitivity: highly sensitive to the sun but resilient to peels.

SKIN TIPS:

- SPF: 30+ and clothing of UPF (Ultraviolet Protection Factor) of 30+
- Risk of sunburn on a scale of (1-10): 10
- Risk of skin cancer: high
- Best time for sun exposure: before 11 a.m. and after 5 p.m.

TYPE 2: such as Kim Kardashian

Natural skin color before sun exposure: light brown to olive. You have: brown to dark brown hair with blue, green, hazel or brown eyes. Reaction to sun exposure: you often tan but occasionally burn. Sensitivity: Moderately sensitive to the sun.

SKIN TIPS:

- SPF: 30+ with a PPD factor 8 (Persistent Pigment Darkening)
- Risk of sunburn (1-10): 6
- Risk of skin cancer: medium
- Best time for sun exposure: before noon and after 4 p.m.

TYPE 3: such as Jennifer Lopez

Natural skin colour before sun exposure: brown to dark brown. You have: dark brown to black hair and brown, blue or green eyes. Reaction to sun exposure: you tan well and rarely burn. Sensitivity: you're sensitive to peels.

SKIN TIPS:

- SPF: 15+ with a PPD factor 8 (Persistent Pigment Darkening)
- Risk of sunburn (1-10): 4
- Risk of skin cancer: low
- Best time for sun exposure: before noon and after 4 p.m.

TYPE 4: such as Naomi Campbell

Natural skin colour before sun exposure: dark brown or black. You have: black hair and dark brown eyes. Reaction to sun exposure: you tan very easily and have a very small chance of burning. Sensitivity: you are highly sensitive to facial treatments, but not the sun.

SKIN TIPS:

- SPF: 15+ with a PPD factor 8
- Risk of sunburn (1-10): 1
- Risk of skin cancer: low

Best time for sun exposure avoid the hours from noon till four

Stretch before you garden

When you're out in the fresh air surrounded by plants and flowers, it's easy to forget you're actually exercising. In fact, you can burn 300 calories an hour gardening. In the summer issue of Best Health magazine, on newsstands now, you can find an article all about how the secret to getting the most out of your "garden workout" is an adequate warm-up and stretching. Here is some of that advice:

- Walk around outside for a few minutes to warm up, then do some gentle stretches of your hamstrings, quadriceps and lower back.
- Once you start gardening, change positions at least every 15 minutes.

- Use a kneeling pad to reduce stress on your knees.
- Use a wheelbarrow to carry heavy bags such as soil.
- Always wear sunscreen and a wide-brimmed hat.
- Keep a bottle of water handy to stay hydrated.

Eatings disorders linked to genes

Genes play a big role in anorexia nervosa and bulimia. iSTOCK PHOTO

Epigenetics. Old news put to rest as new science reveals how genetics explain causes of anorexia nervosa and bulimia

CELIA MILNE
Metro Canada

There should be no guilt or shame with an eating disorder.

These feelings are common. But new research tells us that genes play a big role in anorexia nervosa and bulimia.

"There has been a pretty major shift in the way we understand the causes of eating disorders," says Dr. Howard Steiger, director of the Eating Disorders Program of the Douglas University Institute in Montreal.

tute in Montreal. "The old view was that eating disorders resulted from family dynamics. Fingers were pointed at mothers who dieted or were over-protective."

A new science called epigenetics — how the environment influences gene expression — helps explain eating disorders. Essentially, some people carry a genetic vulnerability, which may be compounded by severe stress or adversity.

The final ingredient is dieting. "It is very new," says Dr. Steiger, who is a professor of psychiatry and psychology at McGill University.

Eating disorders are serious illnesses that often affect adolescent girls.

Between five per cent and 10 per cent may eventually die of factors related to the disorder.

When families wrack their brains to answer the question, "Why us?" they may not think of genes.

"A young girl might think, 'what's wrong with me?' Or her mother might think, 'Why did I diet when she was 10 years old' The reality is that people develop eating disorders, not because of some weakness of character, but because they carry susceptibilities to eating-disorder development that are then switched on by environmental pressures and too much dieting," says Dr. Steiger.

See why these Nova Scotia Donairs are a cult favourite

Lineups 'til the wee hours, people boasting about their visit like it was an exclusive club — I had to check out whether Fuzzbox was worth all the fuss.

I found that it a-b-s-o-l-u-t-e-l-y was. Here's why:

- Nova Scotia Donairs (reg. $5.99) encompass spicy, crumbly, seasoned beef concealed under chopped tomatoes, onions and a thick, rich sweet sauce (evaporated milk, sugar, vinegar and garlic).

- A not-too-thick Clam Chowder ($3.99), studded with wide pieces of bacon (vegetarian option also available), actually tastes of clams.

- Donair Pogos (three pieces for $6.99) take donair meat to the next level when enveloped in this light, golden-brown batter.

- Finely minced Apple Coleslaw

(small for $2.49) helps cut the cloying sweetness of the donair sauce.

- Owner Neil treats everyone like family.

- These are messy beasts. But the feel of donair sauce dripping down your elbows is just part of the experience.

No grill handy? These Sweet and Sticky Honey Hot Wings can also be cooked on a rimmed baking sheet fitted with a metal rack. Roast them for 30 minutes at 400 F, then toss them with the barbecue-honey sauce and roast for another 20 to 25 minutes.

1. In bowl mix together the barbecue sauce and honey. Refrigerate until needed.

2. Divide the bottle of Frank's hot sauce evenly between the 2 plastic bags. Add half of the chicken to each bag, then seal the bag and turn to coat evenly. Refrigerate to marinate for at least 2 hours, or up to overnight.

3. When ready to cook, heat one side of the grill to medium, the other to low. Remove the barbecue-honey sauce from the refrigerator to warm to room temperature.

4. Open each bag just at corner and tip it over sink to drain the marinade. Add 2 tablespoons of olive oil and a pinch of salt to each bag, then reseal the bags and shake gently to coat. Using tongs, transfer the chicken to the cooler side of the grill.

5. Cover the grill and cook for 40 minutes, or until starting to brown. Remove the chicken from the grill and place in a large bowl. Pour the barbecue-honey sauce over the wings, then use tongs to toss them to coat well.

6. Place wings back on the grill for another 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from the grill and let rest for 5 minutes before serving.

Bread-and-butter rules

The bread bowl at a restaurant comes with a lot of etiquette rules. iSTOCK

Dear Charles the Butler, Could you please explain the proper etiquette for slicing bread at the table? Sometimes restaurants serve a small loaf of bread, which is supposed to be cut at the table and shared by the patrons. Do I cut it just for myself or for everyone? I have to hold the other side of the bread while I'm cutting it — isn't this unsanitary for the other people at my table?
Rachel

Hello Rachel,
Let's start with the simplest ways to deal with bread at the table. If bread is served in a basket, already cut, then take one piece and put it on your bread-and-butter plate.

If you are served a small loaf in a restaurant, it would always be polite to cut several pieces and offer everyone at the table some of the bread.

In both cases you would always serve yourself last because it is polite to allow others to go before you. As well, hopefully the piece you were holding will become your piece.

Never draw attention to a task at the table; simply cut the bread, offer it around to everyone, then take your piece, all the while having conversations with everyone at the table. Now, just as an aside, technically it is the hostess who deals with offering bread and cutting it, however in a more casual restaurant setting, this is something anyone can do at the table.

Once you have the bread on your plate, how do you deal with butter?

Use the butter knife to take butter from the butter dish to your side plate, then return the butter knife to the butter dish.

Now break a small one-bite size piece of bread and use your butter spreader from your bread-and-butter plate to put a small amount of butter on your bread and eat the entire piece of bread all at once.

Remember, the only time you can ever butter an entire piece of bread and eat it is at the breakfast table.

Advice

Love your age and let the haters hate

Dear Sisters, As a woman approaches 40, society and even popular culture begin to get nasty (in all sorts of ways). One particularly galling change though is that a 40-something woman enjoying a night out with the girls suddenly becomes labelled a "cougar" and is automatically reduced to a thing of ridicule — and this, regardless of her marital status. I hate that! So my question is, can a woman of a certain age still have fun? If so, how?
Miaow

Claire: Dear Miaow, Let's face it; women themselves invented this kind of name-calling, so

TWO SISTERS
Andrea and Claire

before I share my infinite wisdom, promise me that in the name of all women — yes, even that Lucite-heel sporting, lip-liner-loving, wrinkled-cleavage-showing female of a certain age who's eyeing the barely pubescent waiter over there: do not participate.

As for my wisdom — we all know that one of the joys of approaching 40 is being happier in your own (slightly less firm) skin.

Get out there and let the opinions fall where they may — you've earned your pleasures along with every wrinkle.

Andrea: Dear Miaow, I'm not a woman in my 40s. As a matter of fact, I somewhat dread that age where you're still young, hip and cool in every respect except on your driver's license. Reason being that validation suddenly has to be earned in a different way than a short skirt. Oh my, so much more work! Only recently, have I experienced the weird dread of being "the older woman" — working in the party scene and suddenly surrounded by gorgeous, stick-figured Chihuahuas who are SO excited for Breaking Dawn.

It's a quiet feeling of wisdom and patience, the same feeling that will help you through those moments where society tries to put you in a box. No one can replace your experience on this planet, and no product or low-cut dress can compete with it. Haters gonna hate!

Uncle Sam wants you (and your tax)

It's that time again.

Many Americans in Canada don't even realize they are required to file taxes in the country of their birth

YOUR MONEY

Your taxes are well behind you for another year, right? Maybe not! For tens of thousands of Americans living here not to mention Canadian snowbirds, Uncle Sam wants you — to get in touch. June 15 is the deadline for U.S. citizens to file a required tax return south of the border even if they have been in this country since infancy.

In the last year there was a rumble of panic among U.S. ex-pats as the IRS started flexing its muscle by threatening to chase down and punish those who had fallen behind in their tax returns. Many Americans in Canada don't even realize they are required to file in the country of their birth. Since then the IRS has relaxed their stance a bit but U.S. citizens still need to comply.

According to H&R Block Canada, U.S. citizens and green card holders (including those whose green card has expired) are required to file Form 1040 annually. Go to irs.gov and search for Form 1040.

Those who paid taxes in Canada will receive a foreign tax credit on their U.S. returns and if you are receiving CPP and or Old Age Security here they are exempt from U.S. tax.

Anyone who kept a U.S. home as a rental after moving to Canada, or has any other income south of 49, will have to declare it on the U.S. return.

The big tax surprise for many Canadian snowbirds is a requirement to communicate with the IRS. If you spent more than 121 days in the U.S. in 2011 or a total of 183 days over the past three years, Uncle Sam is interested.

Filing IRS Form 8840 (the Closer Connection Exception Statement for Aliens) is an annual requirement. You'll be asked about your Canadian ties including passport, family, car registration, where you are registered to vote and even your religious affiliation. Most snowbirds can demonstrate a closer connection to Canada than the U.S. so nothing else is needed.

Again, go to irs.gov, search Form 8840 and mail it to the Department of the Treasury, IRS Centre, Austin, Texas, 73301-0215.

Becoming a Kijiji master in one day or less

FUN AND FRUGAL
Leslie Scorgie
money@metronews.ca
Twitter: @Lesleyscorgie

Drum roll please.... After two-and-a-half months of scouring my over-priced local real estate market, I finally found "the one"; a home that I love. I stuck to my price and conditions, mainly the inspection and quick possession date, and my offer was accepted late on Friday night.

Now that I've officially got two weeks to get myself fully packed and moved into my new place, I'm faced with a new dilemma — too much of the wrong kind of furniture. My new place has less square footage and a more elegant/sleek feel to it, whereas my current home screams roomy southern comfort.

My furniture dilemma got me thinking about two things; first, how much we accumulate over the years and, second, how we can reduce what we own without losing loads of money.

I've learned two huge lessons about the accumulation of 'stuff' throughout my moving experience. First, "stuff" costs money. The less you have, the more you'll save. Second, if you don't need something any longer, rid yourself of it right away. What good is it to store a desk in your garage for five years if it's only going to collect dust? SELL IT!

Rather than tossing my furniture in the trash, I turned to Kijiji on Sunday morning to see whether I could sell my furniture to local buyers. Using my iPad and cell-phone camera I created free compelling ads.

By Sunday afternoon more than 50 per cent of my stuff was sold. Plus, once buyers were in my house, many bought more items than what they originally came for. The buyers paid cash and moved the pieces out themselves.

I chalk the quick sales up to pricing the pieces competitively and taking nice photos.

I certainly didn't make a profit on any of my furniture, but considering I furnished my home for less than $5,000 over seven years by buying the bulk of it second hand through eBay, Kijiji, and Classified ads, I've recovered a fair chunk of change which I can now put towards my new furniture.

My second furniture downsize strategy has been to coordinate donations to local charities. Many charities will pick up the goods right from your front door. Others have drop-off locations. Depending on the organization and the quality/value of the donation, a valuable tax receipt may be issued.

Both Kijiji and donations are frugal ways to buy and sell various items. Additionally, they reduce waste because the items are reused and recycled by the new owners. But, avoiding the accumulation of 'stuff' is always the most frugal option of all.

You don't have to be a professional salesperson to make a profit on your stuff. ISTOCK IMAGES

Breaking the mould

Motivating through movement. Young breakdancers put co-ordination, creativity to the test with fancy footwork

The wide-eyed kids file into the school gym just as 17-year-old Gezim Topalli drops to the floor and spins on his head like a child's top.

"Whoa!" a few youngsters cry out, their eyes glued to the lithe boy with the muscular arms as he twists and turns effortlessly on the hard floor of Oldfield Consolidated Elementary in Enfield, N.S.

In an instant, a smirking Topalli is back on his feet, eager to teach his young audience the basics of breaking — or breakdancing, as it's commonly known — alongside his mentor, Drew Moore.

The duo is part of Concrete Roots, a Halifax-based program that uses breaking and hip hop to reach out to young people and encourage them to be themselves.

"We place a strong emphasis on creativity; you learn how to do a dance a certain way and then you're very much encouraged to break away from that and find your own style," says Moore, a professional B-boy and director of Concrete Roots. "That's something that really appeals to a lot of kids. You see them light up."

The 32-year-old former teacher became interested in breaking after watching a music video by rap group Run

DMC and DJ Jason Nevins as a teen.

The 1998 video for It's Like That features infectious beats and a high-octane dance battle between b-boys and b-girls.

Moore started teaching breaking in 2004 as a modest after-school program while working at a middle school in Milford, N.S. The program eventually expanded to schools in Halifax and has since held workshops and other programming as far away as Yukon.

Many of Concrete Roots' first students are now instructors with the program. They host free drop-in practices for anyone who wants to try their hand — and feet — at the intricate manoeuvres.

The program has also spawned several dance crews, including Eastern Bloc, made up of b-boys all originally from Eastern countries. Among its members is Topalli, who came to Canada from Kosovo as a child.

The Grade 12 student attended his first Concrete Roots lesson a couple of years ago with one goal in mind: learning to do a head spin.

"When I break, it feels good," says Topalli, who's since taken up salsa and other dance.

"It feels like I'm in the moment and everybody's having fun. It's a good vibe."

Using breakdancing as a means to engage youth some four decades later isn't unique to Concrete Roots.

Stephen Leafloor has been teaching breaking to youth in aboriginal communities for about six years as part of his program, Blueprint for Life. Recently, he began working with young aboriginal offenders at correctional facilities.

He says breaking is more than fancy footwork — it helps teach confidence and co-operation while celebrating youth and spontaneity.

"For us, it's about healing and it's a way of helping provide a modern-day survival tool kit for young people to use and adapt to their own culture and identity," says Leafloor, a social worker and b-boy.

Workplace Law

You think you know, but you have no idea

WORKPLACE LAW
Daniel Lublin
dan@toronto-employmentlawyer.com
Twitter: @danlublin

Most employees cling to beliefs about workplace rights they gleaned from media, friends or researching online.

But many of these "perceived" rights often do not exist.

Here are some of my favourite misconceptions:

Discrimination means unequal treatment

It is not discrimination if you are simply treated unfairly or differently. Discrimination laws only protect differential treatment based on a defined set of personal characteristics, such as age, race, gender or disability. Employees can be treated differently based on any other grounds, without any form of legal protection.

Similarly, there is no legal requirement that promotions or bonuses be assessed fairly.

An employer may decide, often arbitrarily, who it wishes to promote and how it will compensate its employees. It is entitled to show favouritism, as long as its decision is not based on personal characteristics, such as race, religion or gender.

An employee is entitled to overtime pay for any additional hours worked.

Unless an unemployment contract states otherwise, overtime pay is only required for hours worked in excess of the statutory standards, which vary among provinces.

Many employees do not realize that they can be required to work for longer than nine to five, without an entitlement to overtime pay.

There is a right to sick leave

There is no statutory or legal requirement to provide employees with paid time off from work due to an illness.

Although many employers have policies that do provide a few days' sick leave each year, it is not because they are compelled to do so.

Without such a policy, if an employee is off work and sick, she need not be paid for that time.

If I work through lunch, I can leave work early

This is one of my favourite misconceptions.

Employees often believe they can make up lost time or "trade" a break or lunch for an early departure.

However, most provincial employment standards laws require that a 30-minute lunch be taken, at least, every five hours.

Therefore, even if an employer were to agree to such a "trade" (and few would do so), it would still be illegal.

DANIEL A. LUBLIN IS AN EMPLOYMENT LAWYER WITH WHITTEN & LUBLIN.

Beginnings of the break

Story behind the steps

• Breaking emerged from the gritty boroughs of New York City in the 1970s as a street-

based dance, and flourished as hip hop grew in popularity

• Dancers would duke it out in so-called battles, each one trying to outshine the other with an innovative move.

THE CONCEPTS OF CONCEPTION

PLANNING AHEAD CAN HELP IMPROVE THE SUCCESS IN CONCEIVING A BABY

Mothers-to-be need to do some health-related homework before they start trying to get pregnant. "There are certain things women can do to improve their success in conceiving," says Dr. Lynne McLeod, a high-risk obstetrician at the IWK Health Centre in Halifax.

While the onus is on potential moms to take good care of themselves, men should put healthy habits in place, too.

McLeod advises following these steps to help ensure conception and pregnancy success:

OPTIMIZE YOUR WEIGHT

A healthy weight in a normal body mass index (BMI) range is optimal for conception. "Obesity leads to increased risks to mom and baby in pregnancy, labour and delivery," says McLeod. "It may also be more challenging to get pregnant if you're not a healthy weight."

LEAD A HEALTHY LIFESTYLE

That means following Canada's Food Guide for nutrition and quitting smoking and drinking, since alcohol has adverse effects on pregnancy (for the record, recreational drugs are also taboo). Check with your doctor to see if it's safe to continue taking prescription medications.

TAKE FOLIC ACID

This B vitamin helps the body make healthy new cells and reduces the risk of neural-tube defects such as spina bifida in pregnant women. "Women should take folic acid every day in a multivitamin for three months prior to getting pregnant and during the first three months of pregnancy," says McLeod.

TRACK YOUR PERIODS

The timing of ovulation is one of the most important things a woman should understand about her body because it's a determining factor in getting pregnant. "If you don't have a regular menstrual cycle, it will make it more challenging to figure out when you're ovulating," says McLeod.

GET YOUR GUY ON THE HEALTHY BANDWAGON

"Men have a part to play in the preconception phase, too," says McLeod. "The healthier both partners are, the better the chances of conception success." For example, wearing very tight underwear and regular soaks in hot tubs can negatively affect sperm production. Dads-to-be should also not use any recreational drugs.

SEE A PRECONCEPTION SPECIALIST

If there are factors in your personal or family history that put you at higher risk of pregnancy complications such as advanced maternal age, obesity or medical conditions such as diabetes or high blood pressure, it's a good idea to meet with a high-risk obstetrician. "He or she can offer specialized care that will help lead to successful conception and pregnancy," says McLeod.

TROUBLE GETTING PREGNANT? SPECIALISTS ARE THERE TO HELP

Infertility is defined as not getting pregnant after 12 months of having unprotected sex. About 15 per cent of those trying to get pregnant over that time period won't conceive, but not everyone should wait a year to find out if something is wrong.

"For example, if the woman isn't having a period or the man has had testicular cancer, they should have a consultation from the outset," says Dr. Clifford Librach, a fertility specialist at Women's College and Sunnybrook hospitals and the director of the CReATe Fertility Centre in Toronto.

If a woman is trying to conceive in her late 30s or early 40s, she shouldn't wait a year to seek help either.

"Age is a major factor in conception," says Librach. "There really is such a thing as a biological clock. The 20s and early 30s are the optimal biological time to get pregnant, but some people aren't in a position to do so at that age."

If you are having trouble conceiving, Librach advises following these steps:

MEET WITH A FERTILITY SPECIALIST

You will need a referral from your family doctor. "It's best to see someone with special training in fertility as opposed to a regular obstetrician/gynecologist," says Librach. The specialist will ask questions about the partners' medical history and arrange tests to check the woman's hormone levels, uterus, ovaries and Fallopian tubes, and the man's sperm.

FOLLOW THE SPECIALIST'S RECOMMENDATIONS

If a woman isn't having a regular period, she can take medication to help her ovulate. If her Fallopian tubes are blocked or she has uterine fibroid tumours, she may be able to have surgery to correct those problems. And a man's sperm problem can be investigated "There are ways to treat people now that are much more advanced than 20 to 30 years ago," says Librach.

REDUCE STRESS

It can be upsetting when conception doesn't happen quickly, which doesn't help matters. "There is evidence that stress affects hormones and shuts down the reproductive system," says Librach. "But it's not enough to tell couples to take a vacation and relax. By the time they see a specialist, they've already tried that." Calming practices such as acupuncture, yoga and meditation may help augment treatment success.

BE PATIENT

Sometimes nothing is wrong medically but the timing just isn't right. "If a couple keeps trying without fertility treatment," says Librach, "some of that 15 per cent who couldn't get pregnant in the first 12 months will get pregnant in the next year."

TRY NOT TO STRESS: GO FROM 'HAVE TO' TO 'WANT TO'

WHEN YOU'RE TRYING TO GET PREGNANT AND TRACKING OVULATION, THE TWO
MOST FERTILE DAYS ARE SO IMPORTANT

But sometimes it can make sex seem more like a chore and less pleasurable. With a little patience, creativity and communication, trying to conceive can be a fun and intimate experience for both you and your partner.

Introducing a personal massager into your relationship can be a new way to enhance your shared sexual experience, adding more pleasure and fun into trying to get pregnant. In fact, according to the 2011 Leger Marketing Survey, more than 80 per cent of people who have used a personal massager have used it with their partner, so it can be a natural addition.

This is important as stress and the negative feelings associated with planning to have a baby can actually affect your chances of getting pregnant, according to babyhopes.com. Increasing intimacy with your partner can help lead to a happier, more relaxed, and more positive you.

Personal massagers, such as TROJAN® Vibrating Tri-phoria® are now available at many major drug, food and mass retail locations where TROJAN® condoms are sold, and online at TrojanVibrations.ca.

KNOW YOUR TWO BEST DAYS TO CONCEIVE

There are only about two days a month when you are most likely to get pregnant. An ovulation test, like the FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test, can help you pinpoint your two best days to try to conceive.

GET TO KNOW YOUR CYCLE

- Every month ovulation happens when an egg matures, leaves your ovary, and travels down one of your Fallopian tubes.
- Ovulation is primarily triggered by a monthly surge in Luteinizing Hormone, or LH. This happens in the 24 to 36 hours before ovulation.

- For your best chance at getting pregnant, have intercourse within 24 to 36 hours after detecting the LH surge.
- Menstrual cycles can vary from 20 to 44 days, so the day of the month you ovulate can vary significantly. Most women don't ovulate exactly at mid-cycle. So much variation can make it difficult to find your peak fertility.
- Using an at-home ovulation test can help improve your chances of determining when is the right time for you to get pregnant.

DID YOU KNOW?

Drinking excessive amounts of liquid can dilute the LH in your urine. Therefore, it's best to reduce your liquid intake for two hours before testing.

EXPERTS RECOMMEND

Know
More

If you are on the birth control pill, experts recommend you stop using it one to two months before trying to conceive. This will give you the opportunity to better understand your body and get to know your cycle. Look for an alternative contraceptive method — for instance, the maker of TROJAN® brand condoms offers many different varieties of condoms to choose from.

KNOW IF YOU ARE PREGNANT ALMOST AS SOON AS YOUR BODY DOES

Early pregnancy is a vital time for fetal development. Being able to know if you are pregnant sooner helps you get a head start on making healthy choices for yourself and your baby.

FIRST RESPONSE® has the only test that tells you five days before your expected period. When you are waiting to find out if you are pregnant, one day can feel like a lifetime. Using the FIRST RESPONSE® Early Result Pregnancy Test means you will know as soon as possible — no other home pregnancy test tells you sooner!*

YOU MIGHT BE PREGNANT IF ...

- You miss your period.
- Your breasts are tender or swollen, or have raised glands in the area around the nipple.
- You experience "morning sickness" (nausea and/or vomiting).
- You have to urinate more frequently.
- You see blue and pink lines under your breasts and on your abdomen.
- You have unusual food cravings.

Note: If you are unsure about your cycle length or when to start testing, call First Response toll-free at 1-800-268-3186, from Monday-Friday, between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. ET.

INTRODUCING THE FIRST RESPONSE® DIGITAL OVULATION TEST

- It knows your body. It's the only ovulation test that actually detects your own personal LH surge. It detects and tracks your personal daily baseline levels of Luteinizing Hormone to detect your personal LH surge, unlike other ovulation tests that use a preset "average" level to determine the surge.
- Unmistakable YES+/NO- results. YES+ means try to conceive in the next 24-36 hours; NO- means continue to test daily.
- Unsurpassed accuracy — More than 99 per cent accurate.*
- Comes with 20 test sticks and a digital reader for a one-month supply.

Visit 1stresponse.ca for a downloadable ovulation calculator to help you keep track!

*More than 99 per cent accuracy in detecting LH surge in laboratory studies (read complete directions for use on carton). Certain medication conditions and drugs can adversely affect the reliability of this test for predicting ovulation. For details, visit 1stresponse.ca.

Read product packaging for more information on testing early. In clinical testing, FIRST RESPONSE® Early Result Pregnancy Test detected the hormone levels in 62 per cent of women five days before their expected period; in 78 per cent of women, four days before their expected period; in 87 per cent of women, three days before their expected period; and in 98 per cent of women, two days before their expected period.

Every woman is unique.

FIRST RESPONSE® Ovulation Test understands that.

FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation is a revolutionary new ovulation test that can accurately detect your 2 best days to conceive.

Unlike most tests that use a preset average, the FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test has a Digital Reader that remembers your Luteinizing Hormone (LH) levels and is able to detect your own unique LH surge to determine the best time for you to become pregnant.¹

Knowing the best time to conceive can be a real guessing game, especially for women with irregular periods. New FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test understands that. It's a breakthrough home-use ovulation test that can accurately identify a woman's most fertile days based on her individual hormone levels. Making it easier for couples to determine their best days to conceive.

How the FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test works.

The FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test identifies your 2 best days to become pregnant by detecting a surge of Luteinizing Hormone (LH) in your urine. An increase in LH means your body is ready to release an egg (ovulation). If you have intercourse within 24-36 hours after detecting the LH surge, you're more likely to become pregnant.

² Over 99% accurate in detecting the LH surge in laboratory studies (based on directions for use).

FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test understands your body.

FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test has advanced technology that can detect your unique LH surge based on your daily Luteinizing Hormone (LH) levels.¹

With the FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test you begin daily testing on Day 5 of your period. Hormone levels recorded from Days 5, 6, and 7 of your period are saved into the Digital Reader's memory to set your baseline and determine your unique LH surge level. Continued testing from that point will allow you to determine your own unique LH surge, the time when you're most likely to become pregnant if you have intercourse within 24-36 hours of detecting the surge.

Trust the test with unsurpassed accuracy.

When it comes to detecting a woman's unique LH surge, laboratory studies show FIRST RESPONSE® Digital Ovulation Test to be over 99% accurate, unsurpassed by any other test in the market. And our exclusive

YOUR HEALTHY PREGNANCY

EATING WELL, REST AND EXERCISE ARE PARAMOUNT

Know your limits. That's what Terri Coles advises other pregnant women to keep in mind for a healthy pregnancy.

"I didn't want to admit at first that I was more tired than usual, or queasy. I didn't want to feel limited before I was even showing," says Coles, a 30-year-old Toronto woman pregnant with her first child. "But once I cut things back a bit and got more rest, I definitely felt better."

What else can you do to foster a healthy pregnancy? Ann Douglas, author of The Mother of All books series, shares her top tips to stay healthy over your nine-month stint.

EXERCISE ... FOR TWO (OR THREE!)

"Pregnancy is the perfect time to make physical fitness part of your regular routine as a family," says Douglas. "That way, once your baby arrives, you'll be in the habit of taking an after-dinner stroll, for example. You won't have to think twice about remaining active after baby or modelling an active lifestyle to your growing child."

TRY YOGA

Pregnancy yoga classes give you a chance to meet other pregnant women in the neighbourhood. "And you're participating in a prenatal fitness activity that helps to prepare your mind, body, and soul for the challenges of birth and motherhood," says Douglas.

REST, REST, REST

Don't think of sleep as an indulgence, says Douglas. "Instead, sleep is another type of fuel that your body needs to help you take the best possible care of your baby," she notes. "So give in to the waves of fatigue — the kind that makes it almost impossible for you to keep your eyes open when you arrive home from work. Your body is trying to tell you something: You need more rest. Pay attention and nurture your body by giving it what it needs."

WATCH WHAT YOU EAT

The lemonade, ice cream and pickles cravings will come. But also be sure to watch what else you eat. Along with taking prenatal vitamins and folic acid daily to help develop the baby's brain, spine and skull, Health Canada recommends eating at least 150 grams of cooked fish weekly. (Fish is thick with omega-3 fats and nutrients to help with the growth of your baby.)

ALSO KNOW WHAT YOU CAN'T EAT

Health Canada recommends avoiding alcohol and nicotine during pregnancy. Caffeine should also be limited — but check with your health-care provider to determine how much caffeine, if any, you can have per day.

WHAT YOU WILL NEED WHEN BABY COMES HOME

Do you need a Miracle Blanket? How about a diaper warmer for your soon-to-arrive baby? "It's easy to over shop for baby," says Ann Douglas, author of The Mother of All books series.

So here are her top tips on what you will really need once your baby comes home.

• Change station: This could be a change

table or simply a changing pad attached to a dresser top. "Some parents find it works well to set up one or more mini-change stations around the house," says Douglas.

• Newborn and Size 1 diapers and wipes.
• Comfortable nursing chair with foot support.
• Bassinet, playpen or crib.

• Dresser for baby's clothes
• Baby clothes. (For the early months, Onesies and sleepers will do.)
• Baby blankets. "Treat any crib blankets you receive as wall decorations," notes Douglas. "Babies shouldn't sleep with blankets due to the increased risk of sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS)."

THE THREE TRIMESTERS

Found out you are pregnant? Congratulations! Here is a look at the 40 weeks of pregnancy.

FIRST TRIMESTER (WEEKS 1-12)

This is the trimester of waiting ... and often nausea. "Once you find out that you're pregnant, you spend the next two months waiting to see if the pregnancy is likely to thrive," notes Ann Douglas, author of The Mother of All books. "The rise of miscarriage drops significantly after the first trimester." This trimester also comes with symptoms such as headaches, constipation, bloating, frequent urination and tender breasts. "Once you reach the six-week pregnancy mark, you may find you experience mild nausea or out-and-out vomiting under certain circumstances," adds Douglas, noting that about one in five women don't experience any nausea or vomiting in pregnancy. If nausea is a problem, try to avoid an empty stomach — your nausea may worsen at that point.

SECOND TRIMESTER (WEEKS 13-27)

This is the glory trimester: For many women the nausea and vomiting is gone, you start to feel the baby move ... yet you aren't uncomfortably large yet. "And as the pregnancy continues, the movements become strong enough for them to be noticed and felt by other people," says Douglas.

THIRD TRIMESTER (WEEKS 28-40)

This is the home stretch, says Douglas. "Third trimester complaints include frequent trips to the washroom because your uterus is pressing down on your bladder, a sore back, swollen ankles from fluid retention, and insomnia," notes Douglas. Baby is really growing. So how can you feel your best during this body-shifting time? Douglas recommends maintaining a healthy pregnancy by eating well and sleeping when your body craves it. Also, look for women in your neighbourhood who are pregnant and experiencing the same things you are. "You'll appreciate their support and friendship, both during your pregnancy and after your babies arrive," Douglas says.

DEFYING THE ODDS OF NATURE

IVF CANADA HAS BEEN CREATING FAMILIES SINCE 1983

For Dr. Perry Phillips, there is no greater joy than handing over a newborn baby to its parents. That is, unless he is handing the baby to previously infertile parents.

"That's even more special," says the Toronto-based obstetrician/gynaecologist and co-director of IVF Canada, the country's first fertility clinic.

It was nearly 30 years ago when Phillips and three of his OB/GYN colleagues at Toronto East General Hospital — Dr. Sam Batarseh, Dr. Murray N. Kroach and Dr. George Hon Woo — established the LIFE Program, Canada's first treatment program for infertility via in vitro fertilization (the technique of fertilizing human eggs outside the body before implanting in the womb).

"IVF was being done in the States and elsewhere, but not here," recalls Phillips. "We were sending all of our patients to the States."

In 1983, the foursome made medical history by achieving Canada's first IVF pregnancy. With this success came increasing demand from across the country and the world, and five years later, they founded IVF Canada — their private facility in Toronto housing state-of-the-art labs, clinics and surgical facilities — where they treat an average of 500 patients per year with various fertility treatments and assisted reproductive technologies.

In the decades since they began, the team has continually defied the odds of nature, giving thousands of people experiencing problems conceiving their dream of having a biological child. Among the milestones, not only did IVF Canada achieve the first IVF pregnancy in Canada, but also the first twins and other multiples born via IVF, the first baby born from a frozen embryo, the first baby born from a donor egg, the first gestational surrogacy pregnancy and birth, and the first pregnancy and birth for ICSI (intracytoplasmic sperm injection).

"Everything really hinges on the quality of the laboratory because that's where the scientific advances take place," explains Phillips. "We've been blessed with very good laboratory science people, particularly our laboratory biologists. They're key to success in this."

IVF Canada's reputation remains in such high esteem that in 2009, Sir Robert Edwards, the Nobel Prize-winning British physiologist who first developed in vitro fertilization in 1968, joined as an honorary director.

25 IDEAS TO COOL DOWN

When it's blistering hot outside, here are 25 great ways to cool down.

FIRST, REDUCE THE HEAT IN THE HOUSE

- 1 During the day, close the windows and use shades and blinds to keep the warmer outside air out.
- 2 Tilt horizontal blinds upwards, according to BC Hydro —this will block heat but still allow light in.
- 3 Change window dressings to light coloured curtains, etc., which also reflect the heat out.
- 4 Replace heat-emitting incandescent bulbs with compact fluorescent light bulbs, says Lauren Mangion, Healthy Homes adviser at Green Calgary, an urban environmental non-profit organization.
- 5 Apply low E reflective film to your windows to reflect heat away. Available at hardware stores.
- 6 Open windows at night to let cooler outside air in.
- 7 Plant deciduous shade trees on the southern and western sides of the house, says Mangion.

NEXT, PLAN YOUR ACTIVITIES AROUND THE WEATHER

- 8 Stay put if it's high noon ... plan activities for early in the morning or late in the day when it's cooler, says Mo Hagan, VP of operations, GoodLife Fitness, London, Ont.
- 9 Immerse yourself — in a public pool or a lake.
- 10 Run through a sprinkler with your kids.
- 11 Spend time at an air conditioned shopping mall, public library, movie theatre or other public space.
- 12 Middy, relax in an easy chair in the shade and use cooling cucumber slices as a compress on your forehead.

DRESS COOL

- 13 Wear loose fitting, light-coloured clothing.
- 14 When Hagan runs in the heat, she soaks a cap in cold water and wears it. This will work if you're gardening, too.

CAMERON SPENCER/PHOTODISC/THINKSTOCK

- 15 Wear long hair up and off your neck.

REFRESH YOURSELF

- 16 Keep mist toner spray in the fridge and spritz your face!
- 17 Hagan suggests that you put rolled up, dampened hand towels in the fridge — to cool down, wipe your face with one or put it around the base of your neck.

- 18 Store foot cream in the fridge and massage into hot, tired feet. Mint lotion is particularly refreshing because it leaves a cooling sensation.

- 19 Use ceiling fans, says Mangion — in the summer, they should turn counter-clockwise so they are pushing air down.

- 20 Make the bed with (cool) white satin sheets.

EAT, DRINK & CHILL

- 21 Plan easy meals that don't require the stove or oven, says Fran Berkoff, registered dietitian, Toronto. Instead, barbecue and prepare cool, crispy salads.

- 22 Freeze mandarin segments, cherries and grapes and use them instead of ice cubes in cold water, says Hagan. They take longer to melt, and they taste good, too.

- 23 Always drink lots of water and other liquids, says Berkoff.

- 24 Allrecipes.com provides this delicious slushy recipe: Combine four cups cubed seedless watermelon and 10 ice cubes in a blender. Add ½ cup lime juice, ¼ cup sugar and ⅛ tsp salt. Blend until smooth and enjoy.

- 25 The cold, juicy summer fruits are most refreshing, says Berkoff ... enjoy peaches, melons and oranges, too.

Testimony wraps up at Clemens perjury trial

His large frame towering over the microphone, Roger Clemens leaned forward at the podium and declared to the judge: "Yes sir, I am not testifying."

The government presented three rebuttal witnesses Monday after the defence rested its case at the Roger Clemens perjury trial.

The trial will determine whether Clemens lied when he told Congress in 2008 that he never used steroids and human growth hormone. Closing arguments will be heard Tuesday. The case could go to the jury Tuesday afternoon.

Nadal makes history with 7th title in Paris

Rafael Nadal was worried.

A guy so unflinching, so nearly unbeatable at the French Open, got a case of nerves during the 18 hours he and Novak Djokovic waited for the restart of their rain-interrupted final at Roland Garros.

Instead of focusing on how close he was to winning a record seventh French Open, Nadal grew increasingly wary of the other possible outcome: A loss in a fourth consecutive Grand Slam final against Djokovic, who was trying to become the first man since 1969 to collect four straight major titles.

When play was halted on Sunday, Nadal was clinging to an shrinking lead. But the King of Clay overwhelmed the No. 1-ranked Djokovic for the nine games they played Monday, wrapping up a 6-4, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5 win.

"You never know if you're going to win another one," said the second-ranked Nadal, who now owns 11 Grand Slam titles.

"I don't know if I am the best or not," he added. "I am not the right one to say that." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kings take seat on NHL throne

NHL. Los Angeles seals deal by scoring three times in first during Devils' major penalty

It was worth the wait.

After 45 long years, including two near-misses in the last week, the Los Angeles Kings have finally been crowned Stanley Cup champions. The party kicked off before the first period even ended Monday as Los Angeles romped to a 6-1 series-clinching victory over the stunned New Jersey Devils.

The game turned on a penalty that should immediately erase Marty McSorley's 1993 illegal-stick call as the most memorable in Kings history. Devils forward Steve Bernier was given a five-minute major for boarding just over 10 minutes into the game after bloodying Rob Scuderi with a hard hit from behind, and Los Angeles made him pay.

First captain Dustin Brown got a puck behind Martin Brodeur. Then Jeff Carter followed. By the time Trevor Lewis made it 3-0 at 15:01, the Staples Center crowd knew the Kings had all the goals they needed.

After all, Jonathan Quick didn't allow more than that in any game during a dominant run through the playoffs. The Kings goaltender was awarded the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP for his dominant performance in goal.

Quick didn't face a lot of shots in Game 6. His toughest task was staying composed as the score went up.

"As much as you keep pushing it out of your mind it'll creep back in," he said. "Especially when you get that four-goal lead and it's hard for it not to creep into your head a little bit. But you keep reminding yourself how dangerous of a team they are, and the second you become relaxed and get your mind off what you're supposed to be doing, that's when they'll take advantage of you."

The Devils were the first team since 1945 to even force a Game 6 in the Stanley Cup final after trailing 3-0 in the series, and the clincher highlighted why the task of coming all the way back is so daunting. There's no room for bad bounces or bad luck.

New Jersey was where it wanted to be after weathering an early storm and killing off a minor penalty. And then Bernier crashed into Scuderi. The most difficult part of that penalty for the Devils was the fact it came just seconds after Jarrett Stoll had hit Stephen Gionta from behind without a call.

Series over. The Devils were shaken and their hopes of forcing a Game 7 were soon shattered. It's extremely rare to see a team score three times on a major penalty, especially against a New Jersey penalty kill that was the NHL's best in the regular season at 89.6 per cent. They couldn't maintain that level in the playoffs.

Carter added another goal in the second period while Adam Henrique got the Devils on the board just over a minute before the intermission. However, there was no doubting the outcome as the final 20 minutes ticked away and resignation started to settle in on the New Jersey bench.

"It's pretty awesome, obviously, when you have a three- or four-goal lead with five minutes left and you know what these guys are capable of doing, then you start seeing it on the bench," Kings coach Darryl Sutter said. "It's the feeling ... seeing them so happy and the work that you go through."

Quick answer to Conn Smythe question

No one will be overlooking Jonathan Quick now.

- The Kings goaltender was given the Conn Smythe Trophy after clinching the Stanley Cup on Monday night.
- It was no contest. Quick was the backbone of a Kings team that went on a stunning 16-4 run in these playoffs, with the goaltender only allowing three goals in a game on two occasions.
- His playoff statistics were among the best in NHL history.

Roller-coaster playoff ride for Bosh

NBA. Heat forward's emotional post-season could end with title

Chris Bosh has watched the birth of his son, collapsed to the court in agony with a strained abdominal muscle, seen his team sputter many times during nine games without him, then dealt with the death of a masseuse who was stricken at his home.

And all since this Miami Heat playoff run began.

"I think about those things every day," Bosh said.

His run of emotional ebbs and flows in recent weeks is on the upswing again. He's returning to the NBA finals, and if the Heat are going to win it this time Bosh likely will have to play a major role when they take on the Oklahoma City Thunder starting on Tuesday night.

His importance is unquestioned, at least by the Heat.

Where he exactly fits in the rotation these days, that's still in some doubt. Bosh says it's "irrelevant" as long as he's getting minutes.

He didn't start any of the three games he played in the Eastern Conference finals against the Boston Celtics. But with the series — and the entirety of a championship-or-bust season — on the line in the fourth quarter of Game 7, Bosh hit perhaps the most important shot of all, a three-pointer that helped kickstart what became a 20-6 run to end the game.

Bosh may be viewed as the third wheel of Miami's Big Three by those on the outside. Within the Heat locker room, maybe no other player is more valued, especially by the other two sides of the superstar Heat triangle, LeBron James and Dwyane Wade.

"Chris is big," James said after Game 7.

"Huge," Wade added.

"Game ball automatically goes to him," James continued. "Without his production tonight, we don't win.... We haven't had that type of activity, that firepower off the bench, since we got here. It's unique. It's very unique that CB is coming off the bench, but it may be something great for us."

Guarding the Thunder

Heat wary of Westbrook

The Miami Heat know there's another all-star point guard standing between them and the championship after surviving a steady threat of Rajon Rondo triple-doubles to reach the NBA finals.

Russell Westbrook poses a different kind of triple threat with his blazing speed, defensive intensity and often deadly shooting. He brings the Oklahoma City Thunder into the finals playing some of the best basketball of his young career.

Heat guard Dwyane Wade said Monday he considers Westbrook "the most athletic guy in the NBA for what he does." Wade will share responsibilities in guarding Westbrook when the series starts with Game 1 on Tuesday night in Oklahoma City.

Raonic opens tournament with 19 aces in victory

Canadian Milos Raonic defeated Philipp Petzschner 7-5, 7-6 (1) in his opening match at the Gerry Weber Open on Monday.

Raonic, the No. 5 seed from Thornhill, Ont., served 19 aces in the straight-sets victory over the German, who made it to the final of the 2011 event. Raonic will next play Ze Zhang of China, who overcame another German, Tobias Kamke, 6-4, 7-6 (2).

Philipp Kohlschreiber began his title defence at the grass-court tournament with a win over wild card Dustin Brown in an all-German matchup.

The 163rd-ranked Brown twice pushed Kohlschreiber to a tiebreak, before the eighth-seeded defending champion won 7-6 (4), 7-6 (4) in one hour 23 minutes.

The 28-year-old Kohlschreiber will face Lukas Kubot after the Pole beat Jarkko Nieminen of Finland 6-4, 6-4.

Rafael Nadal, who won his record seventh French Open title earlier Monday, and five-time winner Roger Federer, both have byes to the second round.

Canada focused on next opponent

After Canada's men's soccer team overcame the scorching heat and spotty pitch to upset Cuba on foreign soil last Friday, coach Stephen Hart allowed his players a brief time to revel in the result.

Then they promptly filed those feelings away.

Canada hosts Honduras on Tuesday in the second game of the third round of CONCACAF World Cup qualifying. Another victory would give Canada six points and some considerable breathing room heading into a two-month break.

"(I told them) the usual stuff: enjoy the moment for a couple of hours and then understand that you've achieved nothing, we've achieved nothing," Hart said after practice Monday at BMO Field.

The 77th-ranked Canadians defeated Cuba 1-0 on Friday, while No. 46 Panama defeated 55th-ranked Honduras 2-0 in the other game in the group.

After Tuesday's matchup, the national side, gunning to make its first World Cup appearance since 1986, takes a break before picking up World Cup qualifying again in September.

"It's going to be massive for us. We don't want to go into the next two months with any regrets of what could have been if we'd won maximum points," said David Edgar, whose well-placed cross led to Olivier Occean's goal versus Cuba.

The Canadians played through soaring heat on Friday that left Hart joking that he just hoped his players "didn't die." They also played a man short after keeper Lars Hirschfeld was shown a red card for handling the ball out-side of the box.

Milan Borjan played well

"OK, it's a home game, but I think Honduras has too much experience to be desperate."

Canada head coach Stephen Hart on the mindset of Honduras following a loss as Hirschfeld's replacement, immediately facing a dangerous free kick.

"It was difficult because I didn't warm up or anything, it was a tough situation to come in on, winning 1-0, a free kick on the 18-yard box..." Borjan said. "But the guys gave me the confidence, the coaches they gave me confidence, so it was good."

He'll be Canada's goalkeeper against Honduras while Hirschfeld serves a one-game suspension.

Hart said he has faith in whichever Canadian keeper he has in net, saying there's little difference between the two.

"New goalkeeper, different name," Hart said. "Other than that, the players wouldn't be picked if I didn't think they could do the job."

Co-host triumphs. Shevchenko scores two as Ukraine beats Sweden

Andriy Shevchenko made his coach look brilliant, scoring two great headers Monday to give Ukraine a 2-1 win over Sweden at the European Championship.

After Zlatan Ibrahimovic had given Sweden the lead in the 52nd minute, Shevchenko responded by heading in the equalizer just three minutes later and then added the winner in the 61st.

The victory gives Ukraine a serious chance of advancing from Group D after England and France drew 1-1, while Sweden faces an uphill battle to remain in the tournament.

Shevchenko is already a national icon in Ukraine and carried the hopes of the team going into the tournament. In front of a sea of yellow and blue in the packed Olympic Stadium, he certainly didn't disappoint. He rewarded the faith coach Oleg Blokhin showed in the veteran.

Showing flashes of the scorer's instinct that once made him one of the world's top strikers, Shevchenko beat Olof Mellberg to a cross for his first goal and then met a corner to head the ball inside the near post for the second.

That set off shouts of "Sheva" that may reverberate throughout the nation for a long time.

Shevchenko was given a well-deserved standing ovation as he was taken off in the 81st minute.

Turf trouble. Spain considers protest to UEFA over stadium grass

Spain was considering filing an official protest to UEFA over the state of the pitch at Gdansk's PGE Arena after Italy's refusal to consent to extra watering left it dry for their opening European Championship game.

Spain coach Vicente del Bosque as well as players Andres Iniesta, Xavi Hernandez and Cesc Fabregas all complained about the turf following Sunday's 1-1 Group C draw, which affected the defending champions' passing game.

Spain's bid may come too late, however, as UEFA rules say any protests lodged dur-

No change

Russia coach pledges more attacking play

Don't expect any major changes to Russia's lineup or attacking style of play when the team takes on Poland at the European Championship.

The Russians beat the Czech Republic 4-1 in their opening Group A match, and they will next face the co-hosts on Tuesday.

"There's not much reason to make big changes," Russia coach Dick Advocaat said Monday.

The way the Russia forwards cut through the Czech defence on Friday elevated Advocaat's team to the ranks of tournament favourites, and the Dutch coach knows a win against Poland would guarantee a quarter-final place with a match to spare.

France and England trade goals in draw

Rivals deadlocked 1-1. France winless at a major tournament since 2006 World Cup England held on for a 1-1 draw with France on Monday at the European Championship, giving the Group D favourites one point each.

Joleon Lescott put England in the lead with a header in the 30th minute, and Samir Nasri levelled for France shortly before halftime with a strike into the bottom corner.

The draw means France has still not won a match at a major tournament since the 2006 World Cup. The national team, however, is unbeaten in its last 22 matches.

"I think we have to be happy with that," France coach Laurent Blanc said. "We were too timid at the start, there was a bit of pressure that got to us, and then we got better actually after we conceded the goal — that's when we started playing."

England took the lead when captain Steven Gerrard curled in a free kick from the right after Patrice Evra had fouled James Milner, and Lescott was able to nod the ball past France goalkeeper Hugo Lloris.

France's equalizer was all about one-touch football as Florent Malouda, Evra and Franck Ribery flicked the ball around the left side of England's penalty area to free up space for Nasri, who put in a

Men down

England's injury curse extends to the coaching staff at the European Championship.

Roy Hodgson has already lost four members of the squad to tournament-ending injuries and now goalkeeper coach Ray Clemence is going home for surgery.

The former England goalkeeper snapped an Achilles' tendon while warming up the 'keepers before England's

1-1 draw against France on Monday.

Hodgson says "the hoo-doo with injuries continues ... he's in an awful lot of pain and has to go back to England for an operation."

your mouth," as he looked in the direction of the England bench. He then brought his finger to his lips as if to tell someone to hush.

French let victory slip away

Wilting in the heat and technically inferior to the French, England escaped with a draw from their first European Championship opener.

And France, with the flair and guile England lacked for most of the match, will be ruining a missed opportunity.

"The side that played the most football was France," France coach Laurent Blanc said.

That was borne out in the statistics.

While the French completed 634 passes, their opponents managed just 307 while having less than 40 per cent of possession in what was largely a containment exercise by Roy Hodgson's side.

France defender Patrice Evra compared England's defensive tactics with Chelsea's in the Champions League last season. But they succeeded for the London club, which dispatched Barcelona and then overcame Bayern Munich to lift the European Cup last month.

"We are frustrated," Evra said. "I think we played much better. In the end it was a draw and we are a little bit frustrated. At times it was like there were 15 bodies on the field."

Nats smack around Jays after Morrow leaves with injury

MLB. Washington cruises after Toronto ace checks out in first inning with abdominal strain

Adam LaRoche hit a two-run homer and Edwin Jackson pitched eight strong innings Monday as the Washington Nationals defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 6-3.

The night started off on the wrong foot for the Jays, who lost starter Brandon Morrow after just nine pitches in the first inning with a strained left oblique. He's listed as day-to-day.

Rookie sensation Bryce Harper had three singles and a walk and Rick Ankiel hit a solo homer for the Nationals, who won their fourth in a row against a Toronto bullpen that was forced to use five pitchers in Morrow's absence.

Colby Rasmus and Yan Gomes homered for the Blue Jays, who were held to three hits and two runs by Jackson (3-3) in the opener of a three-game interleague series.

Jackson departed after Edwin Encarnacion led off the ninth with a double. Sean Burnett replaced Jackson and promptly gave up a pinch-hit home run before getting J.P. Arencibia to ground out to end the game.

Morrow left in discomfort while facing a 2-1 count against Harper in the first. He walked from the field to the dugout and down the stairs to the clubhouse unassisted after being checked out by trainers and manager John Farrell.

Chad Beck came on for Morrow and gave up Harper's single to score Steve Lombardozzi, who was at second after a leadoff double.

Harper went to third when first baseman David Cooper was charged with an error on Ryan Zimmerman's hard-hit ball. Michael Morse followed up with a sacrifice fly to score Harper.

Beck, who has been closing with triple-A Las Vegas and has usually been limited to one inning with the Jays, lasted 3 2-3 innings before being replaced by Luis Perez with two out in the fourth. Beck allowed three runs, two earned.

The Blue Jays (31-30) got one back in the bottom of the first on the ninth homer of the season by Rasmus.

LaRoche hit his 11th home run of the campaign to make it 4-1 with two outs in the third after Harper walked.

with seven home runs and 27 RBIs in 26 games this season of Stone County High School in Wiggins, Miss. The outfielder, one of Toronto's two first-round picks, was selected 17th overall.

Colborne admits to playing injured with Marlies

Joe Colborne skates with the Leafs last December. BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES FILE

Toronto Maple Leafs prospect Joe Colborne will spend the summer recovering from wrist surgery after revealing Monday he was dealing with the injury most of the season.

"I've been battling a wrist injury all year and we're going to take care of that over the next week or so," said Colborne, whose AHL Toronto Marlies were swept by the Norfolk Admirals in the Calder Cup final. "Hopefully I'll be ready by camp."

The six-foot-five forward wouldn't say when the injury first happened but his statistical decline points towards late 2011.

The Calgary native started the season with the Marlies in October, scoring 10 goals in his first 12 games and recording 19 points in 13 contests. He was called up by the Leafs on Nov. 19.

He had four points in six NHL games, but when he returned to the Marlies his production started to decline.

In his first 13 games back with the AHL club, Colborne scored only once.

Despite six multi-point games in his first 10 outings, he recorded just two more all season. His shot production drastically declined upon his return and at one point he went minus-11 in a 12-game span near the end of the season.

In total he had just six goals in the final 51 games of the season and finished the year with 39 points in 65 games.

"I don't want to make excuses but it's not fun and it didn't make it any easier," Colborne said of his wrist.

Colborne joins Matt Frattin, who has already had surgery to repair torn meniscus

- Nazem Kadri said on Monday that he missed the Calder Cup final with a separated shoulder.
- Frattin plans to be back in September, along with Colborne while Kadri said his injury should be healed within a week or two.

Euro 2012

Fans speak out against alleged racism aimed at Italy's Balotelli

A Spanish football fans' group says that "about 200 supporters" racially abused Italy forward Mario Balotelli at a European Championship match.

The group, which is affiliated with the Football Supporters Europe network, says some fans "started monkey chants" when Balotelli, who is black, touched the ball during a 1-1 draw between Spain and Italy on Sunday in Gdansk, Poland.

Balotelli said before Euro 2012 that he would leave the field to protest racial abuse in Poland and Ukraine.

MacTavish gets another shot in Edmonton

The Edmonton Oilers have hired former coach Craig MacTavish to be the team's senior vice-president of hockey operations.

MacTavish, 53, was head coach of the Oilers for eight seasons from 2000 and 2009, including Edmonton's run to the Stanley Cup final in 2006 when they lost in seven games to the Carolina Hurricanes. The London, Ont., native was fired in 2009 after the Oilers missed the playoffs for a third straight season.

MacTavish spent this past season coaching the Vancouver Canucks' AHL affiliate the Chicago Wolves.

Horoscope

- ♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.
The planets warn that if you are not careful you could spend a fortune today.
- ♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.
Write your goals down on a piece of paper and look at them at odd moments throughout the day.
- ♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.
Friends and work colleagues alike are relying on you to take the lead and show them the way, so push personal worries to the back of your mind and do what you can to assist them. You'll be assisting yourself too.
- ♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.
Others may bend the rules and get away with it but you must not allow yourself to be so tempted.
- ♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. Follow your dreams wherever they may lead

- you, no matter how far that may be from where you are now.
- ♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.
It's quite possible that you will come into money over the next day or two, but if you do it's unlikely that you will hold on to it for long. There are just so many beautiful things you want to possess.
- ♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.
Your rivals may seem confident but the fact is they are as scared of you as you are of them — maybe more so. Challenge them directly today and don't be surprised if they back down and let you win.
- ♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.
Reach out to other people and help them feel good about themselves.
- ♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. The problem you face today will

- require a certain amount of abstract thinking if you are going to solve it successfully.
- ♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20.
Loved ones will forgive you almost anything today — if you say sorry and if your regret sounds genuine.
- ♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18. Resist the urge to criticize other people, both in your private life and in your working environment. In fact, go out of your way to give them your support, even if you don't think they deserve it.
- ♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.
Discussions of all kinds will go well today, especially if you give those you deal with the impression that you are as eager for them to do well as you are to do well yourself.

Kia's new Customer Friendly Pricing includes delivery and destination fees and all mandatory government levies.
Prices do not include dealer administration fees ($399 to $699), licensing, PPSSA or applicable taxes.

Offer(s) available on select new 2012/2013 models through participating dealers to qualified customers who take delivery by July 3, 2012. Dealers may sell or lease for less. Some conditions apply. Offers are subject to change without notice. See dealer for complete details. Vehicle images shown may include optional accessories and upgrades available at extra cost. All offers exclude licensing, registration, insurance, other taxes and down payment (if applicable). Other dealer charges may be required at the time of purchase. Other lease and financing options also available. *3 Payments on us offer is available on approved credit to eligible retail customers who finance or lease a new 2012/2013 Kia Optima (Sedon/Sportage/Sorento) from a participating dealer between June 11 - June 16, 2012. Eligible lease and purchase finance (including FlexChoice) customers will receive a cheque in the amount of three payments (excluding taxes) to a maximum of $500/$550/$500/$500/$500/month. Lease and finance (including FlexChoice) purchases are subject to approved credit. Customers will be given a choice between up to $1,650 reductions from the selling/leasing price after taxes or dealer can issue a cheque to the customer. Some conditions apply. See dealer for complete details. 0% purchase financing is available on select 2012 Kia models on approved credit (OAC). Terms vary by model and trim. See dealer for complete details. Representative example based on 2012 Optima LX MT (0P54TC) with a selling price of $23,584 (includes delivery and destination fees of $1,455; other fees of $34.00/MVIC fee, environmental fee and A/C tax $100, where applicable) financed at 0% APR for 60 months. Bi-weekly payments equal $164 with a down payment/equivalent trade of $1,750. Cost of borrowing is $0 for a total obligation of $23,584. License, insurance, applicable taxes, variable dealer administration fees (up to $699), PPSSA, and registration fees are extra. Retailer may sell for less. See dealer for full details. Don't Pay Until Fall on select models (2012/2013 Sportage/Sorento/Sedona excluded). No interest will accrue during the first 90 days of the finance contract. After this period, interest starts to accrue and the purchaser will repay the principal interest monthly over the term of the contract. ECO-Credit for 2012 Optima Hybrid is $1,000 and is applicable to the purchase or lease of a new 2012 Kia Optima Hybrid. Available at participating dealers. Certain restrictions apply. Offer is transferable within same household (must provide proof of address). Limit of one bonus per customer or household. Offer not combinable with any other loyalty/conquest offers. Offer ends July 3, 2012. *Highway/ city fuel consumption of these vehicles may vary. These estimates are based on the Transport Canada's approved criteria and testing methods. Refer to the Government of Canada's EnergyGuide Fuel Consumption Guide. Your actual fuel consumption will vary. For more information on our 5-year warranty coverage, visit kia.ca or call us at 1-877-542-2886. KIA is a trademark of Kia Motors Corporation.
